

Many Pay Final Tribute to Memory of Seward Jones

Scores of relatives, friends and business associates paid final tribute to Seward W. Jones, 92, president of the Newton-Waltham Bank and Trust Company as funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at the Newton Highlands Congregational Church. The Rev. Frederick Groetsma, pastor of the church, officiated. Burial was in the Newton Cemetery.

Honorary pallbearers were Frank L. Richardson, William H. Cahill, William H. Rice, Jay R. Benton, William F. Chase, Edward I. Brown, George F. Kerr and Herman T. Jones. The ushers were Kenneth S. May, Dr. Homer C. Sowles, Dr. Mark H. Ward, George L. White, Allston T. Budgett, Ralph K. Shaw and Theron B. Walker.

Mr. Jones, who lived at 49 Columbus street, Newton Highlands, died Sunday at the Newton Wellesley Hospital. He was one of the nation's oldest bank executives.

He had resided at his late residence since 1886 and was a founder and treasurer of one of the largest monumental granite companies in the world, the Jones Brothers Company, with quarries at Barre, Vt., and Boston offices at 10 High street.

Born Feb. 9, 1857, at Ebsburg, Penn., his parents, Hugh and Eliza Jones, soon moved to the toll gate on the old National Pike in that town. His father served throughout the Civil War as a lieutenant, and was killed in the siege of Petersburg, March 25, 1865, just two weeks before the war ended, leaving six children. Seward was 8 years old.

At the age of 16, after education in the Pennsylvania Soldiers' Orphans School, he learned tele-

Beacon Street Resurfacing Contract Is Awarded

The contract for resurfacing Beacon street in Newton from the Boston city line to Washington street, Newton Lower Falls, was awarded to the second lowest bidder, Richard White Sons, Inc., West Newton, whose price was $55,000.

Street Commissioner Harold F. Young in making the award acted according to a clause in the advertisement for bids which states that the city may reject any or all bids if officials decide that it is for the best interests of the city to do so. The lowest bid was $440, lower than the figure of the successful bidder.

Beacon street will be resurfaced.

Five Year Old Boy Is Freed From Fireplace

A five-year-old boy who became wedged in the chimney of a barbecue grille in his backyard, remained trapped for more than an hour Wednesday until a Fire Department crew extricated him by dismantling the fireplace.

Despite constant cautioning by his parents against climbing on the fireplace, John David Mayo Jr., of 30 Berwick road, Newton Centre, clambered into the chimney and became so ensnared in the flue that he was unable to move in either direction. He was caught up to his armpits.

The frightened youngster called to his sister, Maura, 7, who was playing in the yard, but even with her aid the more

Intensive Traffic Safety Program Here

Acting Chief William P. Mahoney of the Newton Police Department announced today that the Fourth of July weekend will be the occasion for an intensive traffic safety program.

An enforcement program is being carried out in most of the nation's cities and states to prevent the high death toll which the National Safety Council says usually occurs during the holiday period.

"The police department urges every citizen to take special precautions in an effort to save both lives and property over the Fourth," Chief Mahoney said. He predicted that traffic will be unusually heavy during this celebration, because of the many new cars that have rolled off the assembly lines during the past year and because thousands are still catching up with the pleas-

Teach Your Children Basic Traffic Rules

Unless mothers and fathers teach their children basic traffic rules and safe play habits, 25 Massachusetts boys and girls will be killed in traffic during the summer months of July and August and September, according to Robert S. Kretschmar, secretary of the Boston Automobile Club.

Last year during these three months, 26 youngsters were killed, while in 1946 traffic fatalities claimed 28 boys and girls, the Auto Club officials said. In these same years summer injuries rose from 1821 to 1969.

Parents can spare themselves worry and later regrets by instructing their children to keep off the streets except when crossing at the corner on the red and yellow light or in a hilly traffic. Motorists can do their share in protecting children by driving carefully and taking it easy at all times.

Blames 16-Year-Olds

Sixteen-year-old drivers are involved in three to nine times as many fatal automobile accidents as middle-aged drivers, according to the Automobile Safety Foundation.

In attempting to explain what the record shows, the Foundation says that research experts blame lack of driver-training, together with three characteristics of youth: (a) too much energy, which shows up in excessive speed; (b) inability to keep attention on driving; and (c) the tendency to "show off."

While the experts are probably correct in their analysis, we are inclined to believe that the average youngster is often the victim of overconfidence. Without adequate experience in the handling of motor vehicles, the young man or woman assumes an ability to meet any emergency that may arise. This confidence in one's ability is a valuable trait but, before it can be a positive asset, must be tempered with experience.

People often seek excuses for their failures instead of trying to do something about them.

Miss McPherson Joins Air Force in Germany

Miss Jeanne T. McPherson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. McPherson, 221 Lincoln Avenue, Newtonville, has recently arrived in Wiesbaden, Germany, from the United States for assignment to duty with the European Wing of the Air Transport Command.

Miss McPherson has been assigned as secretary and writer for the Public Information Officer of ATC, assisting in the dissemination of Air Transport Command news and information.

The European Wing of ATC, operating with the efficiency of a large-scale airline, provides air transportation for military personnel, cargo and mail throughout the European, Mediterranean and Middle East areas.

Miss McPherson is well qualified for a position with the Public Information Office, having been a member of the Public Information Staff of the Boston Metropolitan Chapter of the American Red Cross from April, 1947, until signing with the ATC in April, 1948, for duty in Europe.

Miss McPherson was graduated from Saint Mary's High School of Waltham in 1944, and attended the Fay School of Boston, where she was an active member in many of the school's various activities. She was President of the Dramatic Club, a columnist for the school paper "The Fayette," and a class representative on the Student Council. After graduating in 1947, Miss McPherson was elected President of The Fay School Alumnae Association for 1948, a position from which she has recently resigned; and is associated with the American Legion Auxiliary (Post No. 48) in Newton.

A New Independence Day

God grant that in the somber days ahead, Our faith and courage be as steadfast and as true, As those who, years ago, gave this great nation birth, And left this land a heritage to you.

Forgetting self, let us be on our guard, The sabre's rattle does not oft betray, An enemy within, who like some loathsome thing, Breaks down the structure into rank decay.

Now look around! In all the vastness of the earth, Is there a land so blessed as is our own? Then let this be an era of rebirth, And man the ramparts of each American home.

Non-Swimmers Should Stay Out Of Small Boats in Deep Water

(First of six articles on basic rules of water safety as taught by the Newton Y.M.C.A.)

Summer means swimming-time to millions of young Americans and to a good many older ones, too.

Judging by past swimming seasons, the summer will also mean the end of six or seven thousand American lives—mostly young lives. Last year, 6,500 met death by drowning in the seas, lakes, ponds and waterways of this nation. These were tragic deaths, and particularly sad is the fact that most of them need not have happened if simple rules of water safety had been learned and practiced.

The first step toward water safety is to learn to swim, and to swim well, according to Richard B. Simmons, Physical Director of the Newton Y.M.C.A.

"Those who can't swim well should not only stay out of deep water, but should also stay out of canoes and other small craft that are likely to capsize," he says. "Non-swimmers and small boats form a deadly combination which is doubly lethal when mixed with deep water."

If you can't swim—and despite reading these rules—go out in a small boat, try to cling to it, should it capsize. "Most row boats or canoes will remain afloat even when turned over," Mr. Simmons says. "If non-swimmers would hang on to them instead of frantically striking out for shore, not nearly as many would drown."

As children are victims in a majority of water accidents, much of the responsibility for preventing drownings lies with parents. Children should not be entrusted to the mercies of water-wings or old tires in deep water or unguarded swimming pools. They can lose the water-wings and slip off of the tires. They should be encouraged—but not forced—to learn to swim and they should learn in well-guarded pools under competent adult instruction.

(What has the modern bathing beach or swimming pool got that the "old swimming hole" didn't have? Read next week's installment of "Swim for Safety.")

The Highlands of Western Massachusetts

This Special Feature was prepared by the Development Commission on Massachusetts' primary vacation resorts.

Columbus discovered America centuries ago—but have you discovered the Berkshires yet?

The highlands of western Massachusetts, only 125 miles from Boston, are rated by the Massachusetts Development and Industrial Commission as one of the state's top vacation spots for tourists interested in fishing, hiking, scenery, music and historical sites.

With almost 2,000 miles of modern roads running through Berkshire County—from Williams-town, northern gateway to these highlands and home of Williams College, to Tolland's great state forests in the south—the area offers a year-round variety of vacation possibilities.

The famed Boston Symphony Orchestra will again revisit Lenox beginning July 18 to play for music lovers from the world over at the Berkshire Festival. Held in the Music Shed on the spacious grounds of beautiful Tanglewood Estate, the Festival is rivaled only by the Berkshire Playhouse which attracts leading artists from Manhattan's stages during the summer months.

Over 70,000 acres of state forests, ideal for picnicking, hiking, fishing and camping, are available to vacationers who prefer roughing it. For those desiring hotel accommodations, the Berkshire Hills Conference has accredited more than 50 hotels located throughout the countryside.

At the highest point in the state, Mount Greylock, stands a beacon, erected to the memory of Massachusetts men who lost their lives in the First World War, which can be seen from five neighboring states.

Great Barrington, with the brooks of Bish Bash State Forest nearby, is the business and shopping center of the Southern Berkshires. Here, too, may be found the spot on the Village Green where the British first encountered armed resistance by the colonies in the early days of the Republic.

Pittsfield, former home of the Autocrat of the Breakfast Table, Oliver Wendell Holmes, and the city in which Herman Melville's great sea classic "Moby Dick" was written, is the center of a region where for decades great estates and summer homes made the Berkshires one of the most fashionable of summer resorts. Golf courses, polo matches and spectator sports are to be found in abundance in this city.

The Mohawk Trail—old marching route of the Canadian Indian tribes who marauded the first colonizers of the western part of the state—follows some of the finest timber land in the Commonwealth. Bathing facilities, picnic sites and camping grounds make a leisurely trip through the northwestern section of the county a visit to be remembered.

So whether it be fishing for brook trout in Bish Bash State Forest, motoring along the Mohawk Trail, hiking up Mount Greylock, or whiling away the hours in the pleasant country inns of Sheffield, Great Barrington, or Pittsfield—follow the tradition of early Americans and explore Massachusetts. Discover the Berkshires—western play-ground of the Commonwealth.

NEWTON CENTRE—By vigorous work of the directors of the Newton Centre Improvement Association, a quarter mile running and bicycle track has been constructed, for use this year upon the "playground." It has been built according to the most approved plans. The necessary funds have been contributed by citizens of the Centre who have manifested marked interest in the scheme, and while the track is not so wide as might be desired for special events like that of the FOURTH it will undoubtedly prove a source of great satisfaction from day to day as a part of the long promised playground.

NEWTON CENTRE—The failure of last year's parade of "Antiques" on July 4 will be atoned for this year by the appearance of 40 ladies and gentlemen, in costume, mounted on bicycles. The scene will be one of rare beauty and elegance.

NEWTON—The Newton Street Railway will run special cars to Waltham on the morning of the Fourth for those who wish to see the grand parade. They leave at 5:15, 5:30, 5:45 and every fifteen minutes thereafter.

50 YEARS AGO

NEWTON—The Y. M. C. A. wheelmen met Saturday evening in the club rooms. Among the business transactions was the election of a secretary and treasurer. L. D. G. Bentley was chosen for the office.

AUBURNDALE — Engineers and firemen of the Boston and Albany Railroad will hold a flag-raising at the roundhouse, Riverside on July 4th. Quite an elaborate program of exercises is being prepared.

NEWTON UPPER FALLS—A party of young people from this place enjoyed a trolley party to Natick and return Wednesday evening. A special car was engaged for the occasion and the young people passed a most enjoyable evening.

35 YEARS AGO

CORNER STONE FOUND — The corner stone of St. Mary's Episcopal church, the oldest Episcopal church in Newton, which will celebrate its 100th anniversary next September, has been found after a long search. Since the church was built it has been enlarged somewhat and the exact location of the stone could not be found, as the records were burned some years ago in a fire at Natick. Through the means of an old paper the location of the stone was found on the northeast corner. Enclosed in the box were 18 coins including a Pine tree shilling and a silver plate.

4. 50 yard freestyle, ages 14-17.

5. 25 yard back stroke, ages 14-17.

At 5 o'clock in the evening, there will be a baseball game between the Newton Centre Cardinals and the O'Connell Post American Legion from Newton Highlands.

Ice cream and cookies will be served to the children during the afternoon.

In the evening, the program resumes at 7:45 with the award of prizes. At 8 o'clock, Chief Keating of the Newton Fire Department has arranged to have the new tower-truck on display at the Playground. This will be a fine opportunity for the citizens of Newton to view this ultra-modern firepiece equipment. Just as soon as it is dark enough, the fireworks program will commence. The committee this year has provided a more expensive and therefore longer show than last year.

In the event of rain, the program will be held on Tuesday.

POLITICS WITH COLOR

(The opinions expressed in this column are the writer's own, and do not necessarily reflect the view or policy of this newspaper.—Editor's Note.)

Republican Party Presents a Powerful Ticket; a Strong Platform

With one eye on the Democratic convention to be held in Philadelphia two weeks later, the Republican party put its best foot forward on June 24 and nominated Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Governor Earl Warren of California to lead the drive to retire President Truman to private life in January, 1949. It is significant and highly encouraging to the G.O.P. that a ticket with such balance and power should emerge from a convention which presented seven alternatives to a group of delegates who showed from the very start that they would not yield to the entreaties of any smoke-filled room master-strategists.

Before going on with a discussion of some of the high-lights of this unusual gathering, a few comments concerning our own Massachusetts delegation might be in order. Out of town papers, as well as Boston papers, featured the unusual situation in which our own group of delegates found itself. There was sentiment major or minor, for Messrs. Dewey, Vandenberg, Martin and Stassen, in substantially that order. Those who favored Senator Saltonstall as a favorite son were well aware of the fact that he probably had little, if any, chance of running away with the main prize. It was known in advance that Dewey and Vandenberg together had the support of the great bulk of the Massachusetts men and women. When, very early in the proceedings, it became evident, even to those most conversant with inside politics, that Governor Dewey would start and continue with a commanding lead a third group began to function. This was the "Stop Dewey" group and was spearheaded by National Committeeman Sinclair Weeks, former Newton Mayor. This brought about a most curious alliance, obviously temporary, between Weeks and Senator Lodge, the chief Vandenberg booster in this state. Weeks was publicly and earnestly working to stop Dewey, whereas Lodge was merely doing his best to promote the nomination of his close friend in the Senate, Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan. So was delegate Mason Sears and delegate Tetter. Even the supporters of Speaker Martin, who realized from the start that their personal choice had no possible chance to win the nomination, were apparently helping along the stop Dewey movement. They might just as well have tried to stop an express train, running at sixty miles per hour by throwing a basket of kindling wood in front of the locomotive. The leading master strategists, including our own Sinclair Weeks, must have known that Governor Dewey could not possibly be stopped, especially after the first ballot had been completed. When the second ballot had been taken and the New York Governor needed a scant 33 votes to secure the coveted nomination, it was all over. Dewey's leading opponents withdrew, one by one, and urged their supporters to support the leading candidate. Consequently, the third and final ballot was a mere formality and Governor Dewey received all 1,094 votes. (Parenthetically, may I insert here the statement that your columnist, at City Hall, on June 21, predicted to a group of political soothsayers that Dewey would win on the third ballot or that senator Vandenberg would win on the fifth ballot.)

Now, where does that leave our Massachusetts politicians? Obviously, the prestige of Governor Bradford and Senator Leverett Saltonstall, who had the vision that Dewey would win on the fifth ballot, to come out.

Considering the situation from a constructive G.O.P. angle, it is apparent that the majority party in Congress has selected a ticket which has power, prestige, personality plus, liberality of views and balance. Furthermore, the known fact that Governor Warren accepted the second place nomination only on condition that he become a "working Vice-President" rather than the usual nomenclature, shows the country there will be two men at the top instead of one plus a mere figurehead. That is indeed good news. Again, there is the distinct possibility that Warren will become a member of the Cabinet, officially or otherwise. Consequently, those who fear that the state of our domestic affairs and the international situation will combine to drive any one man crazy, will be greatly cheered to realize that two fine and two stout hearts will be carrying the burden during the next four years. These four years may be years that will try men's souls. Nothing but the best will be needed to carry on the ship of state.

The ladies will be interested to know that there is a marked possibility that a member of their sex may sit in the next Cabinet, assuming, of course, that the G. O. P. ticket prevails next fall. It is anybody's guess as to who the lady will be and just what post she will be given. The late F. D. R. had his Miss Perkins as Secretary of Labor. We will not discuss here the merits of that appointment. What will Governor Dewey do, given the chance? Offhand, it is difficult to think of any other post than that of Labor which is adapted to the fair sex. Perhaps a new post will be created.

A few general comments, now, on the convention proceedings, as watched via radio and television. It seemed to your columnist that there was a greater independence of thought and action on the part of delegates than ever before. There may have been a few smoke-filled rooms, but nothing which transpired therein appeared to have a profound effect on the convention. One thing which particularly pleased me was the action of the California delegation a short time before the third and final ballot was taken. This large group met in something resembling a football team huddle prior to a big game. The fact that they met right in the convention hall, where everybody could see them, was the significant factor. Again, the very fact that the Massachusetts delegation received so much publicity, due to its apparent inability to agree on a concerted plan of action, was a wholesome sign. It meant, to put it bluntly, that our own delegation declined to be delivered as a unit to any one candidate for the Presidential nomination. Also, the fact that the party platform was the shortest in history and met, head on, at least a few of the main issues, was another good sign.

"Dream Girl" is difficult technical. Finally, a word about the television aspect of this convention. Personally, I was rather disappointed. A great many of the leading characters in the drama looked like ghosts rather than like human beings. It develops that it may be necessary, in the future, to have the people shown on the screen made up just like actors on the stage. Claire Booth Luce, to cite just one example, lost all her glamour and much of her effectiveness on the television screen. She should have been tops, due to her stage experience, but she did not go over at all. Many of the men were anything but attractive. Even our own Senator Lodge, a handsome man if there ever was one, was just one more man who appeared before your eyes. The pictures were blurred and indistinct and very, very white. However, let us be patient and give this new industry a chance to get over its growing pains.

Main Library needs, the enlargement or replacement of some of the present branch libraries, and cooperation and coordination with the building program of the Newton Schools are matters to be considered. The Librarian and Library Trustees have already spent a considerable amount of time in the study of a plan and program of development for the Newton Free Library. While in Newton, Mr. Wheeler will have a busy program of consultations and conferences. He will be a guest of the Librarian, Harold A. Wooster.

DINING with JANE and BILL

Bill: Oh Jane, these baked potatoes taste so good. I'll bet these are "new" potatoes.

Jane: Yes dear, the early "spuds" are in the markets again—and I heard that there's going to be loads of them this year.

Bill: Well we certainly should plan to have them regularly then. When you bake them this way, I enjoy eating the skin and all.

Jane: I was hoping you would, because the Newton Nutrition Center has often mentioned that potatoes supply a lot of food value—I think it was Vitamin C and Iron especially—if the skin is eaten along with the potato.

Bill: By the way, you don't think that eating potatoes every day will increase my waistline, do you? Wouldn't want that to happen!

Jane: No, I don't think it will, as long as you eat moderately on desserts and foods that are very rich in fats and sugars. I remember that a medium-sized potato has about the same number of calories as a slice of bread or an apple or banana . . . and furthermore, an average size piece of plain cake has over twice as many calories.

Bill: Is that right? Well that certainly is convincing. I guess I can eat my potato which I enjoy so much and go a little easy on the cakes and pies.

Jane: I've gathered a few good ideas for serving potatoes in different ways too, Bill.

Bill: Wonderful! You know Jane, I'd like a good potato salad—but soon!

Jane: Okay, then I want you to try another marvelous way of serving potatoes. Bet you'll rave about this dish. It's called "Potato Delight." I just cut it out of the Newton Graphic. Want to see it?

Potato Delight

3 cups sliced or diced potatoes 3½ cups tomatoes
1 medium-sized onion, sliced Pepper
2 tablespoons fat 1½ teaspoons salt

Cook the potatoes, and onion in the fat 10 minutes. Add the tomatoes, salt, and pepper. Cover and simmer 25-30 minutes, or until potatoes are tender. Serves 6.

For Variety—Add a cup of cooked green beans during the last 10 minutes of cooking—or, add a dash of chili powder or a few sprigs of thyme—or, sprinkle with a little grated cheese—just before serving.

Outstanding Religious Teachers To Be Preachers At Summer Union Services

For the past twelve years six churches of Newtonville and West Newton have worshiped together during the summer and again this summer for the thirteenth year, will hold union services. Three outstanding religious leaders, the Reverend J. Edgar Park, D.D., the Reverend McThygar Hamilton Lichter, D.D., and the Reverend William J. Stidger, D.D., will be the preachers.

Rev. J. Edgar Park, will preach at the Newtonville Methodist Church on July 4, 11 and 18, the Rev. McThygar Hamilton Lichter on July 25 and the Rev. William J. Stidger on August 1 and all other Sundays in August and September 5. Dr. Stidger will preach in the West Newton Unitarian Church at 1326 Washington street.

The sermon subjects by Dr. Parks will be July 4 "The Fortunate Islands"; July 11, "A Summer Sunday"; July 18, "I'm A Stranger Here Myself"; Dr. Lichter will take for his subject July 25, "The Grace of Impatience." The subjects of Dr. Stidger's sermons will be: August 1, "The Story of Incredible Things"; August 8, "God Is At The Organ"; August 15, "The Face of All the World Is Changed"; August 22, "Dipped in Sunshine"; August 29, "You Can't Go Home Again"; Sept. 5, "Worthy of Our Lineage."

Dr. Park is most favorably known to attendants of this series of services. For 19 years he was at the Second Church, West Newton. For 18 years thereafter Dr. Park was president of Wheaton College in Norton, Mass. He now resides in Osterville on Cape Cod.

Dr. Lichter has delighted the Newton union service worshippers. After five years as minister of the Central Congregational Church, he was for 18 years with the First Congregational Church of Columbus, Ohio, a church long served by Dr. Washington Gladstone. Retiring from the ministry, Dr. Lichter became an executive of the Supreme Council 33° of Scottish Rite Freemasonry, specializing in ritual research and editorial work. He was a lecturer in homiletics in Boston University School of Theology and is an affiliated member of the American Unitarian Association.

Newton resident and not a stranger. For over two decades he has headed the department of preaching in Boston University School of Theology. As a lecturer, he is much in demand. He is noted also as a radio speaker and as a journalist. Perhaps this is because he is one of America's best story tellers. Ranking high among Dr. Stidger's more than 20 books is his biography of Edward Markham. This poet lived at least a month a year in the Stidger home in each of the last 25 years of his life. Church Bells of City to Ring Out July 4th Morning

Bells in Newton Churches will ring out July 4 to remind people of the ideals and sacrifices which have purchased their freedom. The bells will begin at five minutes of ten and ring until 10 a. m.

The bell ringing is the suggestion of the Community Worship Department of the Newton Council of Churches which is also asking the ministers of the several churches to read a proclamation drafted by the Federal Council of Churches as a part of the Morning Worship on Independence Day. The Rev. Roger Bennett is Chairman of the local Department.

The complete text of the Proclamation follows:

In this year of our Lord 1948, the anniversary of the birth of our nation falls on a Sunday. It is fitting that on such an occasion recognition be given to those spiritual realities which have sustained our national life during these one hundred and seventy-two years. Accordingly the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America urges the churches at their regular services:

To Remember Our Christian heritage which has been the foundation of our national life during the years, which has shaped our individual and civic ideals, and which has influenced our policies both private and public through many generations;

To Give Thanks To Almighty God for his beneficent Providence which has preserved us a nation in which liberty prevails despite the pressure of many adverse forces;

To Make Confession Before God of our shortcomings where we have failed to embody in thought and practice the ideals of our national life and the tenets of our Christian faith;

To Pray That freedom and justice may be so accepted and practiced in our personal and social relationships as to make evident our sincerity and the worth of our democracy;

That our association with other nations may be so marked by wisdom and goodwill as to establish confidence in our purpose.

poses and hope for the future of the world;

That these things which make for peace may so prevail among the nations that men may learn to live together in understanding and brotherhood;

That God's holy and redeeming purpose in Christ may be so proclaimed that men shall be drawn to him and find their way into that divine Kingdom which alone is the hope of mankind and the ground of lasting peace.

In keeping with the above resolution, the Department of Community Worship of the Newton Council of Churches recommends that: 1. This Resolution be read in our Churches at Public Worship on July 4th; and 2. that wherever possible the church bells throughout the city be rung from 9:55 to 10 a. m.

Dr. Fred Field Goodsell Honored by Council

Dr. Fred Field Goodsell, Executive Vice-President of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions was honored last week by the General Council of Congregational Christian Churches meeting in Oberlin, Ohio.

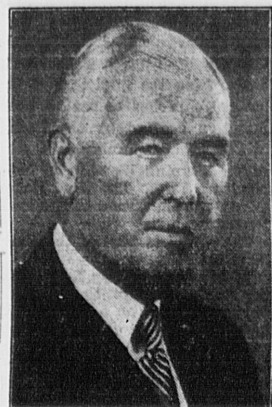

Dr. Goodsell will retire from the American Board before the next biennial. The following resolution was passed:

RESOLVED that this General Council express to Dr. Goodsell its gratitude for his great leadership in a vital concern of all the churches and its good wishes for the future; and that the following Minute commemorating his signal ministry to our fellowship at home and abroad be spread upon the record of this council.

Minutes

In 1930, after many years of eminent service in the Near East Mission of the American Board, Dr. Goodsell was brought by the board to its headquarters to inaugurate a new type of administration as the board's first professional chief executive. He brought to this creative undertaking rare ripeness of world knowledge and human understanding; and from this notable beginning he has steadily advanced through his long tenure of office. Today, not only among us, but in all the churches of America in the International Missionary Council, and throughout the World Church he is hailed as a Christian statesman of the highest calibre and also a brother beloved.

Guiding the board through troubled periods of depression and war, he has kept it true to its vision and task, close to its constituency, and alert to appreciate novel factors and utilize fresh methods in the developing scene. He has broadened the base of the board's direction and outreach. He has brought it closer to our churches in all parts of the land. And despite the handicaps of this difficult time, he has made it more effective across the whole range of its varied ministries for Christ among the peoples abroad whom it exists to serve in His name.

As long as he lives in this world, Dr. Goodsell is assured of the grateful respect and affection in which we hold him. And as long as our churches carry forward their expanding and persuasive witness to the love of God in Christ, his influence will live on as one of the powerful forces at this stage of history continuing to promote the ongoing of the gospel in hope of the coming of the Kingdom.

Sunday School Class Holds 50th Anniv.

The 50th anniversary of a former Sunday School Class of Mrs. Clendenning Smith was held in her house on Sewall street, West Newton, recently.

The class started with three little girls in the Highlands Methodist Episcopal Church in June 1898, and in June of 1900, numbered 17 members which was the largest girls class in greater Boston. The following year the class founded the Dorchester Literary Club with a charter and complete role of officers. The class, disbanded over 40 years ago, but never miss the anniversary day of going home to "Mother Smith." There were telegrams received from distant members, some of whom are scattered from California to Florida and Canada. Mrs. Smith was presented with a very beautiful gold bracelet, engraved on the inside with "L. R. S. From her Girls, 50th Anniversary, June 7, 1948". Also a huge cake with yellow roses and "50th Anniversary". Among those who always attend are Mrs. J. Gordon Kendrick of Milton, Mrs. Lesley Snowden of Wakefield, Miss Agnes Wood of Dorchester, Mrs. S. Walter Wales of Quincy, Mrs. Frank Elkin of Wellesley, Mrs. Paul Thompson of Middleboro, Miss Adell Hawes of Ashmont, Mrs. Arthur Hartford, of Wollaston, Mrs. Harry Cummings of Dorchester, Mrs. Ralph Varney of Brunswick, Maine, Mrs. Martin Shamlane of Jamaica Plain, Mrs. Lillian Whalin of Dorchester, Mrs. Sophia Fairweather of Boston, Mrs. Marion Munde of Milton. In the 50 years, eight members have passed on, but those remaining are as one devoted family.

Playground at Mason School Is Now Open

Unsanitary Conditions Aid Infantile Paralysis

Although it has never actually been demonstrated that poor environmental sanitation affects the incidence of poliomyelitis, insects such as flies and mosquitoes, and health hazards such as polluted swimming waters, swamps, etc., are looked upon with a good deal of suspicion as being possible transmitters of the disease. Many unsanitary conditions such as dirty cellars, back yards, garbage cans, toilets, etc., act as breeding places for flies, mosquitoes, rats and other vermin, and transmit other diseases.

The virus of poliomyelitis has been found in sewage, consequently every effort should be made to avoid polluted waters. As far as is known at this time, the virus of poliomyelitis is spread by person to person contact, either through an upper respiratory infection (common cold) or through the gastrointestinal tract—perhaps in the same manner as typhoid fever. Healthy individuals may be "carriers" of the disease and spread it just as though they actually had the disease.

The Newton Health Department, in the belief that better sanitation may possibly prevent the health department inspections, especially in districts where poliomyelitis has occurred, some cases of poliomyelitis, is intensifying its routine inspections, and it is requested that all householders and business establishments give their full cooperation by keeping garbage pails clean and tightly covered, and removing all rubbish from their premises, thus eliminating breeding places for rats.

As usual, the waters of all bathing places will be examined weekly—and more often if necessary. If any pollution is shown the premises will be posted as "unsafe for bathing." All parents are urged to see that their children pay attention to these warnings. The poliomyelitis season is usually at its height during the months of July and August when bathing beaches and swimming pools are most popular.

The Health Department earnestly requests that each householders pay strict attention to his premises—that he eliminates stagnant water which may provide a breeding place for flies and mosquitoes—and that no harborage for rats exist. Strict compliance with these requests will help to prevent the spread of disease.

Another interesting theatre report from the offices of The Boston Summer Theatre located at the air conditioned New England Mutual Hall on Clarendon street in Boston is that Kay Francis, glamorous actress of stage screen and radio will appear in person at this playhouse the week of July 10th in a highly amusing comedy about a woman jewel thief entitled "The Last of Mrs. Cheney". This will be the third attraction of the season for the Boston Summer Theatre.

Summer Playground Season To Open Next Wednesday

The summer playground season operated by the Newton Recreation Department will officially open Wednesday morning at 9 a. m., with a meeting of the entire playground staff at City Hall. Following this meeting, the leaders of playgrounds and their assistants will report to the grounds to which they have been assigned and the playground activity will be underway.

There will be twenty-five supervised playgrounds under the direction of seventy-three playground leaders and assistants. Forty-five of these people have seen previous service in the Newton system and fourteen have had previous playground experience or experience in summer camps. There will be four supervisors, each responsible for the program on a division of the playgrounds or of some special playground activity. In addition, there will be special supervisors in girl's handicraft, boy's craft, dancing and tennis.

The playgrounds will be supervised daily except Saturday from 9 a. m. to 12 noon, from 2 p. m. until 5 p. m., and from 6 p. m. to 9 p. m. and on Saturdays from 9 a. m. to 12 noon. The program will include sports and games for all ages and dancing, handicraft and tennis instruction on a rotation basis.

A number of playgrounds are already being supervised but do not provide a planned program. These grounds have been supervised since mid-April and constitute our busiest playground areas.

Crystal Lake opened for the season on Monday, June 21 and had a total attendance of 3200 persons during the first week. There is a staff of ten lifeguards at Crystal Lake under the direction of Mr. Dexter Linton who is the beach and bathhouse manager. The swimming area is open from 9 a. m. until dark each day except Sunday, when it is open from 2 p. m. to 6 p. m.

The Thomas J. Lyons Swimming facility at Auburndale will be open under the same schedule as soon as the water tests are satisfactory.

In addition to our regular swimming program, the Newton Chapter of the American Red Cross will provide an extensive program of swimming instruction at both areas. Their program covers instruction from Beginner's work to Senior Life Saving with special classes for Adults on one evening a week and diving instruction for those who wish to become expert in this phase of water sports. In addition to this extensive program, the Red Cross is also sponsoring weekly instruction for the children from various playground areas who are some distance removed from the swimming locations. Free bus transportation will be provided for these children from specific playgrounds. The schedule for this program will be posted at each playground.

Registrar King in Warning to Motorists

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Rudolph F. King has issued the following warning to motorists:

"This week will bring the heaviest highway traffic so far this year. Many business establishments have closed for the 4th of July week vacation period, and this, with the long holiday weekend, will place on Massachusetts highways more out-of-state cars, and more of our own motorists. If we are to prevent accidents and deaths on our highways, there must be complete co-operation by motorists, pedestrians and enforcing officials.

"The Massachusetts fatality record so far this year is 30 per cent less than in the same period in 1947.

"Let us be careful, courteous and considerate, and by so doing, do our part to prevent any increase in highway tragedies.

"All Registry inspectors will be relieved of other duties, and will patrol the highways.

"As the Registrar of Motor Vehicles, I call upon all citizens, organizations and enforcing officials for their complete co-operation. Reckless, careless and speeding drivers must be checked, and those driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor must be removed from behind the wheel. The attitude of the public, pedestrians, motorists and enforcing officials will determine what our record will be on Tuesday morning, July 6.

"Let each one of us resolve to enjoy a safe and sane Fourth, and as pedestrians and motorists be careful. The Life We Save May Be Our Own."

Large Crowds Attending Foxboro Racing Meet

A fifty percent reduction in admission charges to the grand stand and clubhouse of the Bay State Raceway, Foxboro, is one of the reasons accounting for an attendance record to date that tops almost all of last year's figures. Track officials, holding their collective breath last Monday evening, opening night of the summer meet, told each other they might as well expect the worst in weather and other difficulties. As a result, figures were extremely to their liking and on a par with the most optimistic estimates made prior to Monday.

Fessenden School Day Camp Opens Season

Fessenden School opened its summer day camp Monday on the school grounds in West Newton, for an eight-week session. In its opening week, the campers enjoyed the use of all the facilities of the school—its large playing fields, tennis courts, lockers, showers and gymnasium, as well as the hobby and class rooms, and the swimming pool. So far, archery and riflery have proven to be the most popular sports.

Linda Wilson of Waban was the first camper to pierce the bull's eye with an arrow. As the season progresses, horseback riding at Kendall Green Riding School will be available to the boys and girls. During free period, records from the school's own collection have been broadcast through a loud speaker system, thus, enabling the children to sit under the trees and listen to music and such children's plays as "Treasure Island," and "Tom Sawyer."

The staff consists of 12 adult counselors, a registered nurse, and a tutor from the Newton Public Schools—all under the direction of Clarence E. Churchill, principal of the Hyde School, Newton Highlands. "Open House" will be held Monday afternoon, 2 to 4 p.m., when the camp staff will be introduced to the parents, and special games will be played by the guests and campers.

Boy-

he struggled the further he slipped into the chimney.

Attracted by the commotion in the yard, Mrs. Marie Maloy immediately dashed out of the house to help the children. She was joined by the children's grandmother, Mrs. Mary L. Maloy, 68, and a cousin, Mrs. Doris Loughlin of Royce road.

The grandmother knelt in the fireplace and supported the trapped child with her head and shoulders while the mother climbed halfway up the six-foot chimney and vainly tried to haul him out.

After 20 minutes of pulling and hauling, the mother called the fire department for aid. She then returned to the sobbing boy and placed pillows between his armpits and the chimney to ease the pressure.

A crew of firemen from Ladder 2 in Newton Highlands under the direction of Capt. Henry L. Murphy arrived, and after making several futile attempts to remove the boy, they dismantled the heavy stone chimney and freed him. Although his spirits were slightly dampened by his grueling experience, the boy was unhurt except for a few slight bruises and scratches.

No sooner was he freed than young John scampered out of the yard and onto the fire apparatus pleading for a ride. Capt. Murphy placated the boy by letting him wear his fire hat and giving him a promise of a ride at some nebulous date in the future.

gaphy and got his first job at $10 a month and board for the Pennsylvania Railroad at Altoona.

He was offered a chance to learn the granite and marble business at a salary of $4 a week with a dealer for whom his brother, Marshall Jones, was bookkeeper. At the end of five years the brothers had learned the business, saved $2700, and opened their own office in Boston in 1882 at 55 Kilby street.

Acquiring the Columbus street home in 1886, Seward Jones became active in community affairs. From 1894 he served 13 years on the board of health, and was prominent on Republican committees. He served on the Governor's Council 1907-09, was a member of the State Board of Insanity, 1903-07, and a trustee of Danvers State Hospital for a number of years. He was chairman of World War I Liberty Loan committee in Newton.

In 1894 he was one of the founders of the Newton Trust Co., and has been president since 1914. The name was changed in 1944 by merger, to the Newton-Vatham Bank & Trust Co. In 1896 he was an organizer of the Newton Centre Savings Bank and was its president for 20 years, retiring to serve as a member of the investment committee.

As an organizer of the Needham Trust Company in 1913, he served as director and has also been director of the Dedham National Bank, the First National Bank of West Newton, the Boston Mutual Life Insurance Company; a vice president of Stone Institute and Home for Aged People; a past president of the New England Granite Manufacturers Association; on the executive committee of the Boston City Missionary Society, and a charter member of the Massachusetts Republican Club. Other memberships included the Middlesex Club, Rotary Club; Traffic Club of New England; Knockers Dining Club; Brae Burn Country Club; the Loyal Legion, and the Congregational Church.

Mr. Jones in 1881 married the former Sarah A. Weller who died in 1932. He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Donald D. McKay, 46 Woodcliff road, and Mrs. Warren B. Kennedy of 39 Columbus street, both of Newton Highlands.

Doe, Injured, Finally Captured in Yard

While Mrs. Marjory M. Harting of 50 Bennington street, Newton, slumbered in a beach chair on her rear lawn Sunday she began to count sheep leaping over a fence—but, no, it couldn't be—Mrs. Harting then came to the realization that a deer was jumping over a fence.

In fact, the deer was leaping over a fence in her own back yard. Mrs. Harting said last night that she pinched herself to see if she was still dreaming.

The scene was so real that it attracted the attention of her two children, William, 11, and Michael, 9. They gave chase and finally found the light brown doe lying in a neighbor's yard.

Residents of the Newton Corner section were aroused and after a few gentle nudgings the young deer failed to respond. A deep cut was found on the doe's neck and Mrs. Harting said the deer apparently suffered the injury while attempting to leap over a high fence. The doe was taken to the city stables.

Community Fund Campaign Staff Meeting Held Here

The Campaign Staff of the Greater Boston Community Fund paid its yearly visit to the office of the Newton Community Chest in Newton Center last Thursday to carry on one of its regular staff meetings and to hear of developments taking place among the Red Feather Services in Newton.

H. J. (Pete) Pettengill, Executive Director of the Newton Committee of the Newton Community Chest, which was featured by two round table discussions led by Mrs. Catharine S. Holden, Executive Secretary of the Family Service Bureau of Newton, and Riley Hampton, Newton's 1949 Campaign Chairman.

Mrs. Holden discussed the preparation and management of a Red Feather Service budget, explaining that the Newton services prepare their budgets in the summer based on 7 months actual experience and 5 months estimated, that items are carefully gone over and the budget in final form when presented to the Chest at the hearings in September, in the opinion of the committee preparing the budget, for the lowest possible amounts consistent with the needs. Mrs. Holden explained that when the budget is actually allotted to her agency, usually in February, the program for the year has to be gone over and possibly revised to tie it in with the funds available. During the year, Mrs. Holden stated, the budget control has to be constantly followed so that the agency's expenditures will come within the limits of the grant allowed. Mrs. Holden further stated that while she was speaking for the Family Service Bureau she was sure that the problems of the other Newton Red Feather agencies are similar to those of her agency.

Mr. Hampton told the group of the program of the Newton Fund. (Continued on Page 4)

Open House Held by Fessenden Day Camp

Ending its first week of instructive activity for boys and girls of 4 to 12 years of age, The Fessenden School Day Camp, West Newton held "open house" Monday afternoon for over 100 guests, to enable them to see the children engaged in the regular program of a camp day.

Following periods of instruction in swimming, tennis, riflery, archery and other sports, the camp staff was introduced to the parents, and punch was served under the trees. Mr. Howard Plumley, Dean of The Fessenden School, and Miss Catherine Urquhart escorted interested parents through the school buildings.

At the end of the day, guests and campers joined in flag lowering exercises, when taps was played by 12-year-old Theodore Costa of Newton Highlands.

Foundations for the first homes to be built at Oak Hill Park, Newton Veterans Housing community, were poured this week. The occasion was the beginning of the largest housing project for veterans in New England, which, when it is completed, will include 412 one-family houses on a tract of land approximately 140 acres.

Joseph F. Kelly, president of the Kelly Corporation of Arlington, the builders, said he expected to have the first of the homes finished in a matter of weeks, and that there was a possibility that many, if not all, of them would be ready for occupancy by the end of the year.

"The pouring of these foundations is a momentous occasion for all of us who have been much concerned with providing veterans with low-priced homes," declared Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood.

"Before work was begun at Oak Hill, the site for the veterans' homes."

Recreation Department Staff Opens Summer Season

The Newton Recreation Department officially opened its season Wednesday at 9 a.m. with a staff meeting held in the aldermanic chambers at Newton City Hall. The staff consists of the following: three supervisors, four special supervisors, seventy-four playground leaders and assistants, beach and bathhouse manager, twelve lifeguards and three bathhouse staff. Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood was present and extended the greetings of the city to the full staff at this meeting. In his address to the gathering he said:

"I am very happy for this opportunity to greet the members of the summer playground staff of 1948 and to welcome you to what should prove to be a very interesting and worth while work experience during the summer months. My interest in recreation is very much alive and has been ever since the days when I was interested in playing as a youngster.

"We in Newton are very proud of the physical assets which are available for us in the field of recreation, but these physical assets are as nothing compared to the character and influence of people, young and old, in the life of the city. Your work will be difficult. One of your biggest problems will be the fight against indifference of people toward what is being done. You will have to throw your whole weight against this indifference and set as a standard of action the rule, 'We can't just get along.'"

"Last evening I spent considerable time reading a report on fourteen cities in the United States which were considered the strongest and the same number of cities which were considered weak, with explanations of the reasons for placing these cities in these categories. As I read this article I felt very strongly that could I talk with the author, I could indicate to him that Newton should be placed with those at the top. You have the responsibility of holding up the gradation of this city and further than that, to bring it into the front line of municipalities who serve. You must work hard to get into that front line and in working hard do not hide your light under a bushel. There is a full appreciation of what has been done in Newton. We must strive still further for worth while accomplishment.

"You, as recreation leaders, have a great and important task in the guidance of children. Guidance is a burden, but a happy burden when you get results. Parents are happy for the help of interested workers, and they will indicate their appreciation by their interest in your work. You have the responsibility of developing physical activities among the youth of Newton. You have an excellent opportunity in the rhythmic programs of dancing, vocal expression and dramatics. You can promote a very live interest in creative arts and crafts. You can promote an interest in nature and nature hikes, the study of which and doing of which is recreational and an influence in settling the thinking and mind of the individual. As individuals you cannot allow yourselves to become stale. You must hold independently to your conclusions, when you know you are right concerning the well being of these, our Newton children.

"In closing I would suggest that the measure of success of the activities of your program, as well as the measure of success of the entire Newton city government, will be shown because of the splendid, perfect, intimate cooperation of activity in the departments individually and collectively. If this cooperation is the result, it will be exemplified by a picture of dancers in perfect rhythm."

The playground setup and organization was outlined to the staff along with the basic rules and procedures which must be followed in order to carry out the program with as little hitch as possible.

Of our staff this year over fifty percent have had experience on Newton playgrounds in —REC—

Health Department Asks Aid To Rid City of Mosquitoes

The Newton Health Department is requesting householders to aid in their program to curb flies and mosquitoes this year. Excessive rainy weather coupled with the recent heat wave has made the nuisance more acute.

Although the mosquito control agency is conducting their campaign in the fields, ponds, marshes, and swamps, it is up to every householder to clear his own backyard of rain barrels, or water containers. Either the water container can be dumped out, or an oil or D.D.T. solution can be sprayed in it once a week.

Ornamental pools, and private catch-basins are a potential breeding place. Their location should be reported to the health office so that they may be sprayed.

Low places or holes in roads or fields which collect water after rain storms should be filled in with dirt. However, culverts and ditches should be left alone since they are for the purpose of carrying storm waters away.

Goldfish ponds should be stocked with fish; or if not in use they should be drained and cleaned.

If any information on mosquito control is desired, it may be obtained by calling Kirkland 7-6170, writing to East Middlesex Mosquito Control Project at 301 City Hall, Cambridge, Massachusetts, or calling the Department of Health at Newton City Hall.

Will TAXES Take a Slice of Your Life Insurance?

Under the Federal estate tax law, your life insurance may be taxable.

An estate tax on the proceeds of your policies may reduce the amount payable to your life insurance beneficiaries unless your will provides otherwise. If you have set up your insurance under "optional modes" of settlement, the tax may also reduce income payments.

Aid in Combatting the Wood Tick

If you should find a wood tick, one of those little brown, blood-sucking pests, on your dog or anywhere at all, be sure to send it in to the State Department of Public Health at the State House in Boston. Do you remember picking a couple of ticks off your dog last month? The department wants to know about it. This appeal for specimens and reports was made by Dr. Roy Feemster, Director of the Division of Communicable Diseases, Mass. Department of Public Health.

The easiest way to mail in your tick is to place it in a hole cut out of thick cardboard. Cover both sides of the hole with scotch tape or adhesive. Ticks may be killed in kerosene.

July 1st marked the official opening of this special drive to rid the state of the wood tick. Already nearly sixty people have sent in tick specimens. Entomologists have begun already to map spots where ticks are reported most numerous, and plan to spray some of the worst areas soon. A plan of study has been set up by a special advisory committee of experts.

What do the little pests look like? Residents of the Cape area and vicinity are only too familiar with the tick. But others may have more trouble identifying the small, brown, eight-legged, blood-suckers.

Reports and specimens should be sent right away. The little pests require only a blood meal or two this season, then they go into hibernation until next spring. As the summer progresses, more and more go into hibernation, so fewer and fewer are seen.

When sending in an actual specimen or report be sure to state the area where found, from what animal it was obtained, and about how many other ticks were on the same animal.

erans' homes was a wasteland, pocked with gravel pits. It might have reminded many former GI's of bombed areas in Europe, and the roadside signs: "Mines cleared to ditches," and "Achtung, Minen." Much of the ground has now been graded, and when the work is complete, more than $1,500,000 will have been spent on the installation of streets and utilities and landscaping.

"Pits six feet deep will be dug, filled with loam, and planted with trees. The entire area will be covered with a heavy layer of loam, which will assure abundant vegetation.

"When the landscaping is completed, the houses will front on an interior park, which will make the community uniquely beautiful and a civic attraction for the years to come."

Mayor Lockwood said that the Oak Hill Park project was one of the most significant enterprises of its kind in the country and might well serve as a model for other veterans' communities.

"The City of Newton has entered wholeheartedly into this development," he said. "Commissioner Carl Mullen, Warren Oliver and Fred Hawkins of the Newton City Housing Department, were careful to find out the needs of the veterans, the prices they could afford to pay, and the type of houses they would find suitable."

Mr. Kelly said that the extensive resources of the Kelly Corporation would be thrown into getting the job done as quickly as possible.

"We anticipate no delay in bringing the Oak Hill Park program to a speedy conclusion," Mr. Kelly said, "and it is possible that some of the veterans, for whom these houses are being built, will be moving into their new homes within a few weeks. Now that the preliminary details have been settled, we look forward to a swift accomplishment of our purpose."

"A distinctive feature of Oak Hill Park is the attention given to the individuality of the homes. There will be five basic architectural variations and a wide use of colors. In addition, three different types of siding will be used, and the fact that some houses will have garages and porches, or both, will lessen even further the chance of monotony."

"When landscaping is completed, this area will be one of the most attractive spots in Newton. It will have the advantage of an advanced point of view in both architectural arrangement and community planning. There will be no haphazard pattern in the laying-out of streets and community facilities. A well-conceived and convenient general design has been made, with nothing left to chance, with every consideration given to the general beauty of the site, as well as to the attractiveness and comfort of the individual home."

POLITICS WITH COLOR

(The opinions expressed in this column are the writer's own, and do not necessarily reflect the views or policy of this newspaper.—Editor's Note.)

General Dwight D. Eisenhower Stands Firm; Democrats Bewildered

One of the hottest political arguments ever discussed by the American people has now been settled, once and for all. The President of Columbia University, General Dwight D. Eisenhower, has once again told the voters of this country that he says what he means and means what he says. Just why so many intelligent people chose to disregard his flat statement of last January, when he said in the plainest and most direct language possible that he did not believe that a military leader should participate actively in partisan politics, is a mystery to many of us. In the case of the anti-Truman Democrats, of course, it was a case of wishful thinking. They desperately needed a strong man to pull their chests

Those who were completely honest with themselves must have admitted that they were, in many instances, at least, prompted more by an anti-Truman sentiment than by a pro-Eisenhower urge. Necessity is the Mother of Invention; consequently, they used every conceivable political device to persuade the doughty General that there was a powerful and spontaneous demand for his services throughout the land. They doubtless gave the gynaemic columnist, Walter Winchell, the idea of urging his millions of listeners each Sunday evening to write, wire and phone the Columbia President, telling him that the safety of our country and perhaps, of Europe as well, demanded that he change his position and accept a draft from the Democratic convention next week.

Well, it is all over now and those who are seeking to ditch Mr. Truman will be obliged either to do a somersault and get behind their leader after all or else get very busy and find some other candidate. Can they do it? Of course, there has already been quite a bit of talk about Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, who seems to have ambitions in the direction of the White House. How about it? In the first place, could he obtain the Democratic nomination and in the second place, could he defeat Governor Dewey next November?

Off hand, I do not recall any instance in which a Justice of our highest court has resigned from the bench and obtained a nomination for the Presidency and, subsequently, won the election. Charles E. Hughes of New York, to be sure, won the G.O.P. nomination in 1916, but was defeated in the November election by Woodrow Wilson. That was the dramatic time that the G.O.P. nominee went to bed on the night the votes were being counted, secure in the belief that he was the next President. Unfortunately for Mr. Hughes, the California vote, coming in late, upset the applecart, and gave the verdict to Wilson. And all, apparently, because Hughes had not been sufficiently polite and considerate of the feelings of the late Hiram Johnson, a potent factor in California politics.

What about this man Douglas? Will he give up a life tenure of office on the Supreme Court, far removed from the turmoil of the political arena, on the remote chance that he can win the Presidency? Is he willing to join in the ditch Truman movement and join the party irregulars in sending Eisenhower's former Commander-in-Chief back to Missouri? Possibly, tho' I will be rather surprised if he does. Assuming that when he steps down from the court, he casts one side the dignity and the halo which now crowns a member of the court. He will be just another ambitious office-seeker, endeavoring to persuade the voters that he can do a better job in the White House than the brilliant New York Governor. And how will he try to prove his point? What is there in his entire record to indicate that he would do any better than Harry S. Truman? Frankly, I do not know. Governor Dewey, you may be sure, will not hesitate to tie in Mr. Douglas with any and all mistakes made by the New Dealers, who gave Mr. Douglas his big start in national politics. No; I cannot visualize a Douglas victory over the G.O.P. nominee, even if we assume that he can push Mr. Truman one side at Philadelphia next week.

Now, what other move can the Democrats make at this critical juncture in the life of their party? Could a popular Southerner like Senator Byrd of Virginia turn the trick? Probably not. Democratic leaders in other parts of the country would doubtless balk at such a nomination. On the other hand, if the big city bosses in New York, Chicago, Jersey City et al., should attempt to shove in a candidate to their liking, the chances are that the liberals and even many of the old New Dealers would refuse to go along.

Summing up, it is most difficult to visualize the Democratic convention doing anything but meekly going along with President Truman. Isn't it curious that we now find that our President is in some ways a Dr. Jekyll and a Mr. Hyde? When Mr. Roosevelt died, he was aghast. According to his intimates, the last thing he wanted was the Presidency. He earnestly asked his friends to pray for him. That was one Mr. Truman, and I choose to believe that it was the REAL Mr. Truman. Today, finding himself pushed around all over the lot and being advised that he is a dead duck, politically speaking, and must give way to a man who can save the Democratic party from crushing defeat, he has become the second Mr. Truman. Currently, he feels much maligned and is in a mood to silence his critics, particularly those in his own party. His fighting instinct has been aroused and he has come out to give battle, without quarter, to any and all. Furthermore, he has been led to believe that his recent western trip has added to his prestige with the average voter. He proposes to conduct the same type of election campaign, if nominated, that he did out west. Personally, it is my impression that unprejudiced political observers give him little, if any, chance to win re-election next November. In the meantime, it will be exceedingly interesting to watch the proceedings at Philadelphia, starting July 12. Get your ring-side seats early, ladies and gentlemen.

Dangers Lurking in Still Waters Death Traps to Careless Swimmers

(Second installment of the "Swim for Safety" series presented in cooperation with the Newton Y.M.C.A.)

Swim only at protected beaches or pools

Almost any body of water can look inviting on a warm day—but with waterholes as with people, it is wise to get acquainted before accepting invitations.

For water sport, unfamiliar waters are unsafe waters. The safe places to go swimming are areas that are reserved and maintained for that purpose and adequately protected—the well-marked, supervised and guarded bathing beach or swimming pool. Bear in mind that swimming is a means of safety and fun, not an excuse for venturing into danger.

"People who wouldn't think of crossing a street against a red light, or of going out in the rain without their rubbers, will not give a second thought to plunging into any body of water, just so long as it appears wet and cool," Richard B. Simmons, Physical Director of the Newton Y.M.C.A., complains. "They seem completely oblivious to the fact that the bottom of the pond or lake may be a veritable death trap."

Perhaps the most dangerous waters are those still ponds or streams which look so safe. Beneath their placid surfaces, Mr. Simmons warns, may lurk many hidden dangers, waiting to trap the careless swimmer.

Because of tides and undertows, ocean swimming is particularly hazardous except within well-protected areas and during hours when lifeguards are present. Flooded and swollen streams should be avoided not only because of the swift cur-

NEWTON — The opening of the Newtonville and Watertown Street Railway has been postponed to Saturday, July 15. The Nonantum Club is making extensive arrangements for a proper celebration of the event. They have chartered cars in the evening and from 8 to 10 will practically own the road. A band will be engaged, and fireworks and colored fires in addition to the decorations the cars will be subjected to, will inaugurate the opening of the line. The residents along the line of the road from Newtonville to Watertown will illuminate and unite with the club who have secured the privilege of making all the demonstration desired.

NEWTONVILLE — Otis street from Walnut to the foot of the hill was a blaze of light the evening of July 4. The houses and grounds were an attraction for crowds of spectators. Strings of Japanese lanterns were festooned here and there stretching across finely kept lawns and suspended in graceful curves from roofs and dwellings on either side of the thoroughfare. Flags and bunting formed an especially artistic feature of the decorations. A band discoursed patriotic music and dancing was enjoyed.

There is to be a River Carnival at Newton Upper Falls on the evening of July 12 which promises to be one of the most lively times there has been on the river this summer. Barkley's Boston Band has been engaged for the evening and the fireworks and decorations will be elaborate. Large parties are expected from Dedham, West Roxbury and Riverside to take part in the Lantern parade. All having boats or canoes are cordially invited to take part. The parade will form at the Needham Street bridge and will start promptly at 8 o'clock.

NEWTON — It was the old time hospitality of Engine I Company that the friends of the members who visited the Engine House on Monday enjoyed to its fullest measure. A substantial spread was furnished for the guests and heartily appreciated by a large number. Among those who called were members of the city government, prominent city officials and members of the Fire and Police departments throughout the city.

America's Youth Looks Up

This dramatic painting of a boy and his dog tells a story to rekindle the boyhood dreams of many an adult American today. As boys we dream brave dreams—visions worthy of our American heritage—Paul Revere and the Spirit of '76 as men and heirs of those great traditions, each election year brings us the opportunity to reaffirm the ideals which have kept America free.

July 13
EIGHTY-FIVE YEARS AGO (1863) the "Draft Riots", worst mob violence in American history began in New York and spread to Boston. Enraged by the law which permitted the well-to-do to buy substitutes for Army service and the belief that it was "A rich man's war but a poor man's fight", workingmen started the disorders. More than 1,000 persons were estimated killed and $2 million in property damaged during the rioting which raged for four days due to absence of almost all New York state troops in the Gettysburg campaign.

EIGHTY-FIVE YEARS AGO (1863) as result of an attack on the American steamer Pembroke by Japanese who resented foreigners having access to Japan, the American steam sloop, Wyoming, sank a Japanese steamer near Simosaki, Japan.

SEVENTY YEARS AGO (1878) Congress of Berlin concluded. Here British and Austrian diplomacy balked the territorial expansion of Russia, which had just defeated Turkey; and established the independence of Bulgaria, Montenegro, Serbia and Roumania.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO (1923) the Swiftstar, Mallory line ship, left the Panama Canal with 33 on board, never to be heard of again.

July 14
NINETY-FIVE YEARS AGO (1853) America's first World's Fair opened in the Crystal Palace, New York City. The impressive steel and glass Palace burned five years later (October 5, 1858) in a conflagration depicted by Currier and Ives.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO (1933) the new German Chancellor Adolf Hitler launched a series of ominous decrees. National Socialism was declared the only legal party in Germany, and formation of other parties an act of treason. German citizens abroad were called home under threat of loss of citizenship, property and reprisals on their relatives.

the past. Over thirty percent have had playground or camp experience in other cities or towns or camps, and the remainder have all had experience with club and church groups. Twenty-five playgrounds will be supervised over an eight-week period, ending on September 1.

The physical equipment of the playgrounds was explained to the staff and the general condition of the playgrounds was stressed. The staff on each playground is responsible for the condition of the playground, with the help of the children, to see that there is orderly use, freedom of action and sound recreation.

At the close of the staff meeting the District Supervisors, Mrs. Ragna Hovgaard, Mr. John F. Donahue and Mr. John B. Dacey met with their district members to explain the organization and plan for each of their districts, and to orient the staff more fully in regard to their responsibilities and function.

At the close of these district meetings, the staff members secured their supplies and equipment from the Recreation Office in city hall and repaired to their respective playgrounds for the official opening of the summer playground season.

It is the hope and aim of the entire recreation staff that the children will enjoy their playground experience and that the achievement of their children and in the achievement of the City of Newton in its attempts to maintain its place among the leaders of those places which can be called a good place in which to live.

Shrewsbury Man Is Killed at W. Newton

Crushed between a loaded mucking car and an electric engine more than 300 feet below the surface in a shaft of the MDC underground aqueduct in West Newton, Willard S. Sharp, 29, of 70 Boylston Circle, Shrewsbury, was killed almost instantly Monday.

The father of three young sons, Sharp was working as an engine operator at the bottom of the shaft. He backed his engine into the loaded car in the tunnel, but the coupling pin did not fall into place. Halting the engine, Sharp started to couple the cars by hand, his head bent over between them, when suddenly the mucking car became loose and crushed his head between it and the engine.

Counsellor Staff Guests at Dinner

Director and Mrs. J. Tabor Browder, 105 Temple street, West Newton, entertained the staff of counsellors for Tabor School Camp Inc. Needham, and their guests, at a lobster dinner last Wednesday evening. After a brisk swim in the huge pool overlooking the Charles, guests were served on the terrace of the school. Head counsellor Henry Plausse of Natick acted as "chef."

A brief counsellors meeting after dinner was followed by bridge and cribbage in the school's sun-room, as well as tennis, riding, dancing for those more athletically inclined.

New counsellors joining the staff because of the heavily increasing enrollment were the particular guests and included: Miss Eleanor Brown of Waltham.

Waban Woman On WNAC Disc Jockey Program

Appearing before the WNAC microphone on the popular "Virginia Dare Dares You to be a Disc Jockey" on Wednesday, from 2:30 to 3 p. m. didn't phase Mrs. Meyer J. Wolf, 119 Gordon Road, Waban.

The answer is simple. Before her marriage fourteen years ago, she was a professional singer who mimicked well-known singers on the stage.

Verne Williams, m.c., chatted with her briefly in the air-conditioned studio of the Virginia Dare Store where the program originates each week.

Then she introduced "Saturday Date" by Tex Benke, successor to the late Glenn Miller, who lost his life in the last war. Among the prizes which Mrs. Wolf brought home to Waban were the following:

Prince Valiant Pistol game; Miss Swank slip; perfume; Eb-lette gloves; Cynthia Sweets; and a B. & B. ballpoint pen.

Community Chores of the Newtons Holds Singing-Social Evening

The Community Chorus of the Newtons is a singing group—but on occasions they become purely social. Such an occasion was Tuesday night, July 31, when the hospitable home of C. Hassler Capron, 183 Lake avenue, Newton Centre, opened wide to welcome over sixty members and their guests to a family style picnic supper.

One important bit of business accomplished early in the evening was to vote out of membership one Jupiter Pluvius! Too long he's been a hanger-on at the chorus affairs, having spoiled two major concerts so far, and threatened another.

A pleasant feature of the community chorus is the husband-wife combinations in its membership. Many Newton residents have found it a delightful way to spend Tuesday evenings, from October to May, rehearsing good music under excellent leadership, in preparation for two annual concerts in Newton.

Tuesday evening, following the supper and refreshments served by the host and hostesses, the members filled the Capron living room and joined in a round of community singing, with Frank Pickett of Newton Highlands at the piano. Then to top

Vets Make Deposits On Oak Hill Homes

Twenty-two veterans purchased homes in the Oak Hill development Monday night at interviews from the Veterans Housing Department and paid a deposit and selected a lot in the project.

Other groups of veterans were to report Wednesday and Thursday evenings to make selections. Thus far a total of 370 veterans have been certified for the 412 homes to be erected at Oak Hill. It will probably be the middle of August before the first homes in the development are completed for occupancy.

Those from Newton who purchased homes at the meeting Tuesday night were: Frederick J. Wood, 872 Watertown st., W. Newton; Frederick Fisher, Jr., 22 Agawan rd., Waban; Simon Dapsauski, 84 Bourne st., Auburndale; John O. Brown, Jr., 63 Harvard st., Newtonville; James M. Leonard, 7 Grant st., Auburndale; Alfred S. Carroll, 63 Rockland place, Newton Upper Falls; Burton Thornquist, 189 Bellevue st., Newton; Clarence L. Cormier, 19 West st., Newton; Walter W. Hartford, Jr., 12 Fayette st., Newton; Robert T. Terry, 171 Cherry st., W. Newton; Stuart Herrick, 70 Page rd., Newtonville; Richard T. Cotter, 1110 Chestnut st., Newton Upper Falls; Jerome M. Powell, 17 Plainfield st., Waban; Mario M. Belsanti, 56 Beecher place, N. Centre; Edward J. Sullivan, 1580 Beacon st., Waban, and Donald J. Currie, 154 Harvard st., Newtonville.

The study this year will include problems of local health, maternity and child welfare, preventable diseases and sanitation. Technical committees composed of experts in these fields are making separate studies, which will be submitted to the Commission in the fall.

A total of 38 applicants, most of them from Massachusetts, have been accepted by the Newton-Wellesley Hospital School of Nursing for the class entering September 8. This is the sixty-first class to enter the School of Nursing since it was organized in 1888 as an integral part of the hospital.

Four of those to enter the fall class are Newton girls. They are Helene L. Boyd, 213 Linwood Avenue, Newtonville; Lucy C. Piselli, 26 Lenglen Road, Newton; Madeline M. Roche, 10 Fernwood Road, West Newton, and Eloise Springthorpe, 458 Albe-marle Road, Newtonville.

The entering student will spend the first four and a half months in pre-clinical studies, including study of the sciences such as nursing arts, anatomy, physiology, chemistry and microbiology, before receiving her cap. During the next two years the student learns to perform nursing procedures under guidance on the wards, in specialized services such as obstetrics, the Operating Room and the Diet Kitchen; and on affiliations at other institutions in pediatric and psychiatric nursing. After the student has met the specified standards in theory and practice she is ready to take her place in the nursing field as a well-integrated bedside nurse.

The Bloodmobile Unit will visit Newton Chapter, American Red Cross, 21 Foster Street, August 17 and 18, from 1 to 7 p. m.

Wage Increase and Profit Survey

Labor's share of America's national income, measured in dollars, has risen by leaps and bounds since 1929 while the investors' share has dwindled to an alarming figure.

Similarly, the "real" value—the purchasing power—of Labor's share has increased far beyond the rise in the cost of living, while the purchasing power of the investors' portion has dropped sharply.

That, in brief, summarizes the findings of a noted New York utility executive who has just completed an authenticated survey of the trend of the national income from 1929, peak of the so-called "prosperity period" and harbinger of the depression, up to and including 1947.

The survey, phrased in simple language and based on official government statistics, has been compiled by Mr. John A. Ritchie, Chairman of the Board of the Fifth Avenue Coach Company.

Although carefully abstaining from interpretation of its factual content, the survey is by itself an answer to the claim of certain Labor leaders that corporate profits are far outdistancing the gains of the American workingman.

Thus, while corporate profits amounted to $17,400,000,000 last year, or 8.6 per cent of the national income, Labor's share in wages and salaries from private business totalled $105,200,000,000, which represented 52 per cent of the national income.

Wages and salaries showed a dollar gain of 132.71 per cent over 1929, while dividends increased by only 16.78 per cent. Only $6,800,000,000 was paid out to investors in dividends. All the remainder was retained for capital expansion, improvements and reserves—to increase and improve production, seek out new markets, create new jobs and make more secure the jobs already held.

In real value—purchasing power—Labor's share in 1947 was 81 per cent greater than in 1929, while dividends paid investors last year were reduced in purchasing power by 9.18 per cent over the same period.

The "real value" of the 1947 dollar, based on prices prevailing in 1939 (when World War II broke out) was 63 cents. Thus, wages and salaries last year increased, in real buying power, to $66,276,000,000 compared with $36,617,000,000 in 1929, while the purchasing power of dividends shrunk from $4,717,000,000 to $4,284,000,000 in the same period.

More Miles Per Gallon for Auto Owners

American motorists may get more mileage for their gasoline-dollars if experiments being conducted by the Federal Department of Agriculture prove successful.

Studies of alcohol-water injection for car engines show possibilities for increasing fuel quality and providing greater future efficiency in the engines without an increase in cost to the car owner. This means that automobile owners will be able to travel farther without spending more for gas.

The principle under test is similar to the water-injection system worked out for aircraft during the war years. "Engine efficiency increases with higher compression ratios, resulting in a saving of fuel. Experiments now going forward indicate that injection of a "coolant" composed of water and alcohol make possible the use of high-compression engines with an inexpensive fuel of a comparatively low octane rating.

Widespread adoption of such an injection device would also provide a new demand for alcohol from agriculture waste products.

The Drive For World Government

(From Christian Science Monitor)

Among the casualties of the Eightieth Congress were several bills aimed at strengthening the United Nations in the direction of world government.

From both "wrong" and "right" motives, the professional politicians are much slower than the general public to respond to the possibilities of world federation. The only major political figure on the American scene to have committed himself publicly to this ideal is Harold Stassen, and he has become more cautious in his advocacy of it as the political scene has grown hotter.

Yet every public-opinion poll shows popular sentiment for some degree of world government mounting hugely. State legislatures and city councils have backed it in increasing numbers. Distinguished citizens, business and professional leaders, have flocked into the movement. Trade unions, religious bodies, veterans' and students' associations have given it support. The Christian Century proposes it as the great moral issue behind which the churches can unite today.

Still the practical politicians doubt. Lionel Curtis, author of the brilliant "Civitas Dei" comments:

They deprecate any attempt to forego their national sovereignties because they believe the people at large cling to them. The fact is that the people at large are less tenacious of sovereign rights than the politicians, for an obvious reason. The sovereign power rests in the people; but it is wielded in fact by the politicians, who therefore prize the power they hold in their hands more than the people to whom it belongs.

There is at least a measure of undeniable truth in this. At the same time, it must be recognized that such mature statesmen as Senator Vandenberg and Secretary Marshall opposed some of the proposals brought before Congress as less likely to strengthen the UN than to wreck it. They have recognized that some political converts to the cause of world government have seen it merely as a means of ousting Russia from the international organization.

Secretary Marshall went so far as to approve "achievement of a world order based on law," but opposed attempts to revise the UN Charter at this time of desperate peacemaking as tending to split the world.

Of all the groups working toward the goal of world government, none is more conscientious in facing this problem than United World Federalists. In its policy resolution UWF declares:

We disassociate ourselves most explicitly from those who would exclude the Soviet Union or who would welcome her unwillingness to join.

They urge that a plan for world federation be drawn up with the aim of including all nations. If Russia failed to see the real advantages which would flow to it—as to all other nations—from membership in such an organization, the door would be left open for it to enter whenever it saw the light.

Furthermore UWF spokesmen have held that a Russian refusal to join need not destroy the UN, since in that case the projected federation could be formed as a partial world government within UN under Articles 51 and 52. This is a highly debatable point—and debate of the whole issue is just what is needed now.

This newspaper believes that hysterically impelled action aimed against UN could prove fatal to peace. But the sort of public—if not congressional—debate that can lead to a decisive move toward world government at the right time and in the right way is called for by the immensity of the challenge before us.

AM I MY BROTHER'S KEEPER?

Address by the Right Reverend Eric F. MacKenzie, J.C.D., Officialis of the Archdiocese of Boston, Pastor of the Sacred Heart Church, Newton Centre, Mass., over the CBS "Church of the Air", Sunday, July 11, 1948.

In all Catholic churches today (Sunday, July 11), the Gospel reading is from the sixteenth chapter of the Holy Gospel according to Saint Luke. Let me, summarizing it, recall it to your memory.

There was a rich man that had a steward; and a report came to him that this steward had wasted his goods. Whereupon he sent for him and said to him: What is this that I hear of thee? Give an account of thy stewardship, for thou canst be my steward no longer. At this the steward said to himself: What am I to do, now that my master is taking my stewardship from me? I have no strength to dig, and to beg I am ashamed. . . . Then he summoned his master's debtors one by one; and he said to the first: How much dost thou owe my master? A hundred fkins of oil, he said. And he said to him: Here is thy bill; quick, sit down and write it as fifty. . . . And this knavish steward was commended for his prudence. . . . For indeed the children of this world are more prudent after their fashion than the children of light.

As all will realize, this parable is more than the story of a single long-forgotten and unimportant steward. It rather is a story that is timeless, that has application in all times and all places. The Unjust Steward is a type that we recognize over and over again in history and in our own experience. He and his counterparts of yesterday and today are, of course, basically dishonest. But for all that, they are likewise intelligent and successful, and for this reason they commonly win applause and admiration. The general public only notes how quickly they take warning of danger; how wisely and prudently they discover a way of escape; how shrewdly they pick accomplices as venal as themselves; how alertly and efficiently they carry through their plans before anyone can interfere.

My purpose today is to explore a bit into this not-unusual combination of shrewdness, efficiency and utter lack of principle; and then to pose the question: what should be the public reaction, what should be your reaction and mine, to the Unjust Stewards of the past and of today?

Let us first see the Unjust Steward as he sees himself. It is essential to remember that men of this type, whether they belong to ages long past or to our own day, are outwardly respectable, possessed of ready explanations of all their acts. Their first defense is that very respectability. They are known and honored in the community. They serve on public service committees. They contribute generously to charitable causes. They are known to be devoted to their wives and families and friends. "How," they ask, "can anyone point a finger of scorn at me?"

Such a defense is indeed, irrelevant. The question is not of their charities and good works, but only of their private and secret breaches of faith and justice. If this consideration be urged, a new defense is at once presented. You would be challenged to prove your charge. Records would be quoted. It would be shown that all books and papers are in perfect order. Perhaps, even, there are published findings made by juries and boards

LETTER BOX

Always for Newton's Best Interests

On behalf of the many homeowners on Waban Hill, I wish to extend our sincere thanks for the efforts of your publication in our behalf in assisting us in our protest against the proposed construction of the television tower and appliance structure in our midst. We need only to look across to Cambridge from our hill to observe a similar tower now in operation on Soldiers' Field. The constant flashing of the many red lights on that tower during the night would have made home life practically impossible to our many homeowners who would be annoyed thereby, since their houses would be close to the tower.

Aside from the constant danger by the presence of a 200-foot steel tower, which tower would operate as a trap for air-planes in uncertain weather and as a target in the event of war, there would have been a positive destruction of real estate values. No one would want to live in the presence of such a nuisance. Our future plans for a bird sanctuary and a garden on the reservoir land would also become a lost hope. Furthermore, the parents of the many children attending Mt. Alvernia Academy would always have been apprehensive for the safety of their children.

Those in charge of furthering commercial enterprises to the limit in these times are likely to overlook the fact that business success at times may be achieved at considerable damage and risk to others who are generally unable to protect themselves. When we speak of homeowners, there should be nothing more sacred or uppermost in the minds of public officials; and it must be remembered that the resident taxpayer supports the City. Personal safety and comfort of the individual should always be above mere money considerations, and should be ever the watchword of our beautiful City of Homes.

Through your assistance the interest of the residents of Newton as a whole was awakened to our dangers and the need of protecting our Community. No residential community is strong enough by itself in these days when in conflict with strong commercial interests. That is where your publication should always be on guard.

A. C. Webber, President, Chestnut Hill Improvement Ass'n.

Indifference to the cost, in misery and suffering and deprivation of rights, that may be forced on others.

There is a trite legal adage that you cannot indict a nation; still less can you indict all mankind. In religious terminology, however, we must confess with Saint Paul that there is a law in our members that urges us powerfully toward things imperfect and even evil; and that, against this urge, we need the grace of God to strengthen us and to inspire us toward that which is nobler and more perfect. The law in our members is a self-centered urge toward things material and temporal, to

(The opinions expressed in this column are the writer's own, and do not necessarily reflect the views or policy of this newspaper.—Editor's Note.)

A Disorganized Democracy Prepares a Ticket and Attempts to Close Ranks

The situation today is exactly the same as it was three weeks ago. At that time, the Republicans were in the midst of their five-day convention as this column was being written. Today it is the Democratic cohorts who are sweltering in the ghastly Philadelphia heat and doing their best to nominate a strong team to carry on the Presidential campaign and to write a party platform which will say what it means and mean what it says. However, there are two marked differences between the two conventions. Suppose we consider them for a minute.

The G.O.P. met in an atmosphere of supreme confidence, sincerely believing that the man they were about to pick to head the ticket would almost certainly be the next President of the United States. Furthermore, they were not handicapped by having to worry about what the man in the White House might think about their actions. They had at least six strong candidates or near candidates, any of whom could have gone forth from the convention and made a powerful campaign during the summer months and the early fall.

Consider, now, the plight in which the Democrats find themselves. As Edwin D. Canham, the brilliant editor of the Christian Science Monitor phrased it:—"The gloom, dejection and futility of Philadelphia hang like a miasmic blanket along with the sticky heat. Defeatism is the word. Publicly and explicitly, the southerners, the New Dealers and the city bosses have abandoned their inevitable nominee. It just doesn't make sense. But here it is."

At this writing (July 13) it appears that the ticket will be President Truman and Senator Alben Barkley of Kentucky, an old war-horse with a record of loyal, distinguished service to his party. In this connection, it was most interesting to note that the aged Kentuckian, after a long, sixty-eight minute address, labelled as the official keynote speech, received a real ovation from the delegates. Some observers chose to consider this as a polite warning to the President that he had better stick to his statement that the convention would be allowed to pick its own candidate for Vice-President. It was, of course, known to the assembled delegates that the White House had just taken a hand in attempting to draft Justice William O. Douglas of the Supreme Court for the second spot on the ticket. Consequently, the Democrats were in no mood, apparently to let Mr. Truman take any further action. The field of candidates for Vice-President was much larger than had been anticipated. To be sure, some of those frequently mentioned, like Senator Lucas of Illinois, seemed to change their minds as time wore on. Others, like Congressman McCormack of Massachusetts, suddenly began to evince genuine interest in securing the nomination for second place. In theory, of course, the Boston Congressman was in a strong position on account of his residence in the industrial East. A Truman-McCormack ticket would be better balanced than a Truman-Barkley ticket. Again, the advanced age of Senator Barkley is against him. We all remember, for example, how Senator Vandenberg's age was considered one very good reason why the G.O.P. should not honor him on the G.O.P. ticket. And yet, the veteran Michigan Senator is practically the same age as the occupant of the White House and I do not recall hearing many people suggest that the President should refrain from running merely on that account. However, Senator Barkley is passing seventy and that is rather old for a Vice-President who might, like his present party leader, be suddenly asked to take over the reins of government. Undoubtedly, this was one of the factors which Mr. Truman may have had in mind when he started plugging Justice Douglas and then began a survey of the field as a whole.

Before making a few comments on the party platform, let us consider briefly some of the significant happenings of Monday evening. The Barkley address, as had been expected, was a stirring defense of the New Deal and all its works and a vigorous attack on the record of the 80th Congress. Very significant, from your columnist's point of view, was Senator Barkley's failure (at least during the first three quarters of an hour of his long harangue) to say anything at all about economy. The Democrats do not seem to understand the meaning of that word and that, incidentally, may be one important reason why Mr. Truman may go down to inglorious defeat next fall. Now, I cannot personally prove this statement, but some commentator of note recently said that the federal government has been placing an additional 500 workers on the public payroll for a number of weeks. Of course, that means a huge number of new votes for the Democratic ticket. The people do not shoot Santa Claus. Furthermore, it occurs to me that Senator Byrd of Virginia, a sterling Democrat, who not merely gives lip service, but who actually works for economy and efficiency in government, may furnish the G.O.P. with some excellent arguments to use in the coming months.

Another noteworthy point. Listening to the proceedings, it was obvious that the Democrats were still living in the past and referring to the brilliant achievements of their late leader, Franklin Delano Roosevelt. However, that is not so surprising, in a way. They are still blaming poor Mr. Herbert Hoover, our only living former president, for the 1929 depression. Completely overlooked is the fact that the depression was world-wide and could just as easily have happened had a Democrat been sitting in the White House.

Interesting, also, was the very brief mention (at least in the bulk of his address) of foreign policy and especially of the vital part played by the Republican party in the execution of our so-called bi-partisan foreign policy. Why not give credit where credit is due, especially in time of international stress and strain?

One of the things which the independent voter will eagerly study and digest will, of course, be the two party platforms. If the Democrats are to uphold Mr. Truman, they will most certainly have to blast the Taft-Hartley act. However, if they do just that, they are also blasting a great many Democrats in the Congress. A truly huge number voted for the passage of this act and a very substantial block of Democrats voted with the Republicans to over-ride the Truman veto. The same holds true of the passage of the income tax legislation. According to U. S. Treasury figures, which one of the speakers on Monday evening seemed anxious to get into the record, we have a very big surplus and have reduced the national debt most substantially during the past few years. How, therefore, can party leaders claim that the recent income tax has had a ruinous effect on the country?

Well, it will be all over shortly and we can make a careful analysis of the situation. At the moment, the Dewey-Warren ticket looks like a "shoo-in."

all Mr. Capron offered the special attraction of an hour of recorded music from Song of Norway. Lights in the living room went out, and the group listened to Grieg's enchanting music, to the occasional accompaniment of a cigarette glow or a pleasantly relaxed sign from some member who lay full length in "orchestra seats!"

Hartley B. Gardner, president of the Community Choir, announced that Ralph Schoonmaker will be the conductor for the next season, which was welcome news to all members present. Robert Love will remain as accompanist. Rehearsals for the December and Spring concerts will begin in October, at the F. A. Day Junior High School. All residents of Newton who enjoy singing are most welcome. Applications for membership or further information may be had from Miss Mary E. Bowler, secretary, 130 Crafts St., Newtonville. This is a group for all over high-school age, and men will be particularly welcome for the coming season.

Patricia White at Wellesley this Week

Patricia White, Hollywood star with Columbia Pictures, is at the Wellesley Summer Theatre next week beginning Tuesday evening, July 20 in the popular light comedy, "John Loves Mary," biggest hit since the "Dear Ruth" showings.

Miss White is a protegee of Elton Winkler, director of the Wellesley Summer Theatre for she studied under his direction at Stephens college, the noted liberal college at Columbia, Mo., and there first disclosed the talent which has brought her fame in the film capital.

With Miss White in "John Loves Mary" will be Jon Dawson, Frank Sandford, Peggy Fenn, Fay Roope and Bradford Hunt, all members of the permanent cast at the Wellesley Summer Theatre.

The opening of the theatre last week with Peggy Wood in "First Lady" was a gala event and was attended by many civic, state and amusement world celebrities. Ruby Newman's Hotel Statler orchestra appeared on opening night and the program of brief addresses was broadcast over the Yankee Network.

Five weeks of plays are scheduled at this beautifully theatre cooled by the breezes from Lake Waban and located on the campus of Wellesley college. Following the appearance of Patricia White the coming week in "John Loves Mary" comes the noted Hollywood star, Robert Sterling in "Holiday," the play which several years ago made Ann Harding famous.

be possessed and enjoyed here and now, at any cost and by any means. The grace of God is the contrary inspiration to live in the image and likeness of our Creator, and to develop in ourselves some measure of the love and generosity and mercy that comprise God's infinite Goodness.

It can be agreed, I am sure, that, despite the Unjust Steward's specious arguments, his calculated and ruthless selfishness is entirely evil and immoral. By their fruits you shall know them; for an evil tree brings forth evil fruits, suffering and poverty and grief and pain, smouldering fires of resentment and rage and hatred, and a slow-accumulating passion that leads to revolt and war. I need not take time to condemn such men. Seen as they are, with excuses and explanations stripped away, they merit only contempt and punishment.

My concern is with something of wider import than the individual sinners; with the fact that public opinion today seems, for the most part, ready to accept their excuses and explanations, to share and applaud their philosophy, and to be indifferent to the evil of their ways. The public seems no longer to think in terms of morals and ethics, of right and wrong, good and evil, of conscience and duty and obligation. It no longer brands and condemns those who, in public or private life, discard all thought of justice and magnanimity.

What is the public opinion, that sees the evil of our days and shrugs indifferent shoulders? Is it a strange mystical entity, that exists in and of itself, that is created by the times, that is beyond the reach of our influence and our control? Of course not. Public opinion is what I think and say, what you think and say; and, most important of all, what you and I omit to think and say.

If you and I say publicly and strongly and frequently that there is an order of ethics and morals and right and justice, then public opinion will be formed on that basis. But if you and I believe in ethics and morals and goodness, but say nothing; then our very silence gives approval to that which we do not outwardly condemn. The lower law in human nature automatically finds general expression, unless the higher law of God's inspiration be vocal and insistent and authoritative.

My thesis is therefore this: It is not enough to condemn the Unjust Steward and in a vague and general way class him among the unjust and the sinners. It is not even enough to recognize the Unjust Stewards of our day, and silently to disassociate ourselves from them. Such silence gives them aid and comfort, gives them security against punishment for their past misdeeds, and promises them immunity in the future too. Our course must be positive and affirmative. We must have the courage and strength and manhood to condemn injustice and corruption and selfishness and breach of faith, wherever

Bodies of Two Newton War Heroes Home Soon

The bodies of two Newton war heroes were among those arriving in this country from Europe on the U. S. Army Transport Oglethorpe Victory, the Army has announced. The next of kin have been notified in advance of the arrival of the vessel, according to Army officials.

Those from Newton are, Technician, fifth grade, Charles C. Bemis, husband of Mrs. Catherine I. Bemis of 231 Webster st., West Newton, and Pvt. Joseph Silverstein, son of Mrs. Sadie Klevonov of 72 Monadnock rd., Newton.

they be found. We must insist on probity and honor in those to whom we accord power and position and leadership. In our thoughts and words, and especially on those occasions when we have the power to vote and to give effective power to our judgments, we must steadfastly adhere to truth and justice, and reject those whose success is built on the frauds and deceptions of a perverted selfishness.

We cannot, I fear, honestly say that we are without fault in the past. We acknowledge our weakness and our failures, and hence all the more seek God's aid to do better. Let us, then, bow our heads and hearts and pray:

O God, our Father, Who hast made us in Thy image and given to us the power both to understand the good and to will the right; grant that in our day we may strive ever to do Thy Will. Give us Thy light, so that we may know how to prosper not merely our families and friends, but also all others of Thy children whose lives and happiness may in any way depend on us. Give us Thy grace and guidance, so that none may suffer by word or deed of ours; and, if any suffer, inflame our hearts with Thine own generosity, so that, seeing their needs, we may pity and aid them.

Grant, O God, from Whom all holy desires, right counsels and just works proceed, to us and to all the world that peace which Thou alone canst give; that our hearts may be disposed to obey Thy inspirations, and that our times may, by Thy protection, be peaceful; in homes, in towns and villages and cities, in races and nations, and in all the world. Amen.

Vital Anniversaries of the Coming Week

ONE HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-FIVE YEARS AGO (1763) John Jacob Astor, a butcher's son, born in Germany. Coming to New York with $25.00 and seven flutes, he left an estate of $20,000,000 from a fur and real estate fortune.

JULY 18

SIX HUNDRED AND TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO (1323) Thomas Aquinas, one of the greatest of scholastic philosophers, was canonized by Pope John XXII. This Saint's teaching sought to show the accord between reason and the doctrines of Christianity. He was born in 1227 and died in 1274.

JULY 19

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO (1848) the first Woman's Rights Convention held in Seneca Falls, N. Y. Led by such early feminists as Elizabeth Stanton and Lucretia Mott, this meeting launched the first serious demand for "votes for women."

JULY 20

NINETY YEARS AGO (1858) first baseball game to which admission was charged. Played between New York and Brooklyn teams at 50c entry fee to defray rent for field. All players were still amateur at the time.

SEVENTY YEARS AGO (1878) in St. Louis, Mo. 140 persons died in the week ending this day from the excessive heat.

JULY 21

THREE HUNDRED AND SIXTY YEARS AGO (1588) a British fleet began its four day attack on the great Spanish Armada of 120 ships and 24,000 men in the English Channel. The lighter (but not outnumbered) English vessels scattered and defeated the Spaniards, and balked a threatened invasion of England. Shattered by subsequent storms, less than half the Armada reached home.

Gath Scores Charles River Pollution

"The announcement of the Newton city health department that the Charles River at Auburndale and Nonantum was polluted, preventing hundreds of Newton boys and girls from legitimate bathing facilities is no longer a local issue but a state-wide issue," said Harry Gath, Jr., Republican candidate for state representative from the 4th Middlesex District in the November election, last night.

Mr. Gath a year ago called this pollution of the Charles River to the attention of the Newton taxpayers and residents in Wards 1, 2, 3 and 7 when he advocated the immediate building of a large swimming pool by the Newton playground department at the development of the Albemarle playground. He still maintains that this program should be adopted for the youngsters of that district to off-set the condemnation of the beaches of the Charles River at Auburndale and Nonantum that means so much to the enjoyment of the summer season bathing in an area where the majority cannot enjoy the privileges of Crystal Lake at Newton Centre or even the seashore.

"With the Charles River under Metropolitan District Commission control and the Merrimack River should be under state control, even to the extension of hydroelectric power, I as representative from Newton will sponsor state activity for the benefit of the boys and girls who have a right to swim there."

In conclusion, he said, "If the state can take care of Nantasket and Revere beaches let them give attention to the 'old swimming hole' where many of our best citizens 'swam out' of into higher positions in the business, professional and political life of our state."

Plymouth and the South Shore

This Special Feature was prepared by the Development Commission on Massachusetts' primary vacation resorts.

Twentieth-century Pilgrims, by the tens of thousands, are still flocking to Plymouth Rock, where over 325 years ago the first white man set foot in the Bay State.

The original Pilgrims were the first white men to enjoy the boulders and bluffs of Manomet, the lagoons and beaches of the glistening white sands at Nantasket. From all over Massachusetts and from states as far as the Pacific Coast, modern day Pilgrims are still voyaging to the same spots to revel in the wide variety of summer sports offered along the South Shore.

Bathing and boating, canoeing and horseback riding, hiking and camping—all are available along historic South Shore from Boston to the Cape Cod Canal.

In southern Plymouth the Miles Standish State Forest stretches its 8000 acres through woodlands abounding with clear ponds, sparkling brooks and wild life sanctuaries. Picnic sites, bathing facilities, cabins, tent and trailer sites—all are available to nature lovers. There are trails out through the heart of this great forest for the hikers—and the ponds and brooks abound with fresh water fish to delight the angler.

And in the heart of Plymouth—only 40 miles from Boston—is the Plymouth Cordage Company. Inspiration of Longfellow's famous poem "The Ropewalk," they are the largest manufacturers of rope in the world. This organization furnished rope for the clipper ships which brought fame and fortune to early New England—as well as for the mighty warships of the U. S. Navy which carried the Bay State product to the seven seas.

Striped bass, pollock and weakfish run the coastline along the South Shore. Or, if the angler prefers to try home cooking he can indulge in some of the finest shore dinners ever to be served up on a platter. From roadside stands where soft shelled crabs are hawked to passersby to inns, which date back to the days of our ancestors, fine food at its best is offered.

Inns, serving fresh clams from Cohasset and New England boiled dinners to captivate the palate of the most meticulous gourmet, are a familiar sight along route 3.

Quincy—where the "Church of Presidents" is located—was the home of two Presidents, John Adams and his son John Quincy Adams. The lovely Vassal-Adams Mansion—built by an English planter from the West Indies—where the Adams lived is open to visitors.

Further down the coast, some 20 miles from Boston, is the town of Scituate and the well-immortalized by a newspaperman who wandered from his father's peaceful home to Bohemian circles in New York—which prompted those famous verses of "The Old Oak Bucket."

Sherman Sponsors Sales Selection Plan

Field research is now underway on an unusual program in the field of paper distribution, according to a report from Sherman Paper Products Corporation of Newton Upper Falls. The program has as its goal, the development of practical methods to aid paper distributors in selecting better salesmen. Inaugurated by Sherman as an aid to its distributors, the program is sponsored jointly by the company and participating distributors. Actual field research and developmental work will be done by the Bengé Associates, specialists in the field of personnel selection.

Research will be kept on a practical level, interviewing a large number of paper salesmen in the major distribution areas, to determine what qualities characterize the successful paper salesman.

FIESTA!

The small fry enjoy fiesta time every bit as much as the older generation, says this young lady who shakes her maracas and indulges in a bit of fiesta frivolity. For her playtime frolic the little girl wears a gaily printed fine wale cotton pique playsuit by Juniors of California with a ruffle for a make-believe skirt.

Telephone conversation:

Aunt Sue: Hello, Jane.

Jane: How is it down the Cape?

Aunt Sue: Oh it's been quite warm, but we manage to keep comfortable by going for a swim as often as possible. The water has been grand. How about you?

Jane: Well, I must admit we've really been uncomfortable with the heat, but we've been living very simply and doing the least amount of cooking and housework possible.

Aunt Sue: You've had to get a big dinner for Bill every night haven't you?

Jane: Well, we've relied on salads. Last night we had a delicious Special Egg Salad. I usually clean all the vegetables and prepare the eggs or meat or fish in the morning while it's still comfortable. Then at night, I only have to mix the foods and the main part of dinner is ready.

Aunt Sue: That's a fine idea, Jane. We've had salad but I never thought of having the ingredients all cleaned and ready to mix.

Jane: Well, the only thing is, it is better to cut the vegetables up just before mixing—you save more of the Vitamins that way. So I usually wash my tomatoes, carrots, cabbage, lettuce, celery and any others when I bring them home from the store. Then I keep them in the hydrator. That way they're already to slice or dice or shred just before dinner.

Aunt Sue: Mmmmmmm.

Jane: Another point that I just found out about—if you're making just a tossed green salad or using some cabbage or greens, you should mix it with the salad dressing just before serving—otherwise vitamins are lost.

Aunt Sue: This is all very interesting, Jane, and I'd like to talk for hours; but what I really telephoned for—was to invite you and Bill to come down to the Cape next weekend. And don't forget the Special Egg Salad Recipe.

SPECIAL EGG SALAD

4-5 hard-cooked eggs, sliced 1 tablespoon grated onion
1/2 cup chopped celery 2 tablespoons chopped pickle
2 cups shredded cabbage 1/4 cup salad dressing
1/2 cup diced tomatoes 1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
Pepper

Combine all ingredients except salad dressing. Add salad dressing just before serving. Serve on lettuce or other salad greens.

Newton's Answer to the Veterans Housing Problem

The City of Newton has completed a unique plan to provide homes for Newton veterans and their families.

Site of the development is the Oak Hill section, where the City and the Veterans' Housing Department of Newton have made available sufficient land for 412 well-planned, soundly-built, low-cost homes; with a business area, school and playground. Sidewalks, roads, and all public utilities are now being completed according to the latest community planning techniques and without cost to the future occupants. It has been estimated that this contribution of land and improvements is the equivalent of one-fifth the total cost of any comparable home, reflecting a substantial saving in the final cost to the veteran.

These Financing Advantages
Are Available Through
Newton's Banking Institutions

A veteran may purchase one of these modern homes without transfer expense of any kind. The accompanying example shows the cost of financing the basic house (without breezeway, garage, etc.) by a twenty-year G. I. Loan. The advantages of shorter or longer term financing, and financing with a down-payment, will be carefully explained to each veteran.

These typical monthly carrying charges are based upon a twenty year G. I. Loan at 4% interest for the basic $7,820 house.

Mortgage payments $47.39
1/12 of Taxes (estimated) 15.00

Total monthly cost $62.39

Newton in the Past

55 YEARS AGO
July 14, 1893

NEWTON CENTRE—The new street railway on Homer Street is a great leak of electricity and several horses have been thrown down by the damp ground becoming charged with the fluid. There is also a good deal of disturbance between the Railway Co's circuit and that of the Newton Gas Co's. It has been a somewhat dangerous condition of things but it is to be remedied at once, the officials say.

NEWTON—Mr. George W. Bush has followed the fashion and has rubber tires on his private carriage. They are a wonderful improvement in the doing away of all noise from the wheels.

NEWTON—The china at Barber Brothers illustrated with a picture of Eliot Church is having a very large sale, and already the stock is half gone. It was ordered from Germany a year ago, and the order will not be duplicated, so that those who wish to secure some of the china cannot afford to delay.

50 YEARS AGO
July 15, 1898

To prevent the clouds of dust on the roadbed, that is the portion included in the Newton subway, the Boston & Albany Railroad pays about $200 per mile. It is not water that is used but a substance of greater strength, that does not readily evaporate. During the week the "tank-line" train has passed over the tracks sprinkling large quantities of crude oil. The process is unusually interesting. Drawn by a freight engine is an oil car connected with a flat car. On the latter is a form of sprinkler, supplied with oil from the tank. The train passes very slowly over the rails and the work of thoroughly laying the dust is easily accomplished. It is estimated that the oil used on a single track about 5 feet in width costs on the average of about $50 a mile. Twice a year the work is done and has already proved successful.

"Life" is the Lesson-Sermon subject for Sunday, July 18. Golden Text: "As the Father hath life in himself; so hath he given to the Son to have life in himself" (John 5:26). Sermon: Passages from the Bible (King James Version) include: "Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal: But lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal: For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also" (Matthew 6:19-21). Correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, include: "We apprehend Life in divine Science only as we live above corporeal sense and correct it. Our proportionate admission of the claims of good or of evil determines the harmony of our existence, our health, our longevity, and our Christianity" (p. 167).

Harold Everett Tells of Rotary Convention

Harold Everett, Past President and member of Watertown Rotary Club, gave a vivid description of his experiences at the Rotary Convention held in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, in May to members of the Newton Rotary Club Monday.

He began his talk with a description of the ship, a former troop transport of 36,000 tons, carrying a crew of 800. The ship left New York on May 3rd carrying 850 Rotary delegates. The first stop was at St. Thomas Island in Trinidad. He told about his ride over a 5 mile mountain road built by the Seabees during the war. The third stop was at Bahia, one of the oldest cities on the So. American continent. Bahia is a two level city, the upper level containing stores and business houses. The ship was the first to visit the city since the war and caused a great deal of excitement among the natives. They flocked to the docks and gave the Rotarians a rousing welcome. The language used there is principally Portuguese.

The next stop was Rio, and he spoke of the beautiful sunrise over the many mountain peaks which identify the city. The docks, he said were three or four miles long and the delegates were welcomed by boats and bands which met them in the harbor.

The buildings are of modern construction and apartment houses line the shore for miles. The first convention meeting was held in the football field and was attended by 7000 persons. The President of Brazil gave an address which was followed by an historical tableau, a pageant in which 250 boys and girls took part, and presented dances from different parts of the country.

One reason the marble statue of Christ was erected on the highest peak in Rio, he continued is that the Brazilians believe Christ was born in that country.

On the way home the boat stopped at the Barbados. The trees there are very large and colorful when in bloom, despite the fact there has been no rain in the island for 3 years. The principal product of the Barbados is sugar cane, yams, and grain in great quantities. He spoke of the Caribbean and the hundreds of flying fish to be seen there. The party arrived in New York just 31 days after it left. The trip will be remembered for all time by those who attended the Rotary Convention.

"Y" To Erect A $225,000 Building for Men in Guam

Construction of a $225,000 Y.M.C.A. building to serve American military and civilian personnel on the island of Guam will be undertaken immediately, Frederick Sayford Bacon, President of the Newton Y.M.C.A., has announced.

The building will be a one-story structure of reinforced concrete covering 14,000 square feet and will contain an auditorium, clubrooms, restaurant, lounge, game rooms, snack bar, and an outdoor patio. The new building is expected to be in operation by next spring, Mr. Bacon said.

The decision to construct the building was made in response to requests from the armed forces that the "Y" extend its services to Guam, he declared.

"The leisure-time problems of American military and civilian personnel in Guam is particularly acute," he said, "because the island contains no sizable town and the American population there now outnumbers the natives. Guam is the 'civilization' that men aboard ship wait months to reach. What they find is one main highway that parallels the beach, leads to nowhere, and already is populated with thousands of soldiers and marines looking in vain for something to do."

A unique feature of the new Guam Y.M.C.A. building, Mr. Bacon said, will be its service to the families of military personnel and civil service and contractors' employees. Armed Services Y. M. C. A.'s, he explained, ordinarily limit themselves to military personnel but because the recreational facilities on Guam are so limited a special effort will be made to provide activities for civilians.

Funds for the construction of the new building, Mr. Bacon stated, were obtained from the sale of Armed Services Y.M.C.A. the Bruin freshman football properties located in areas no longer having strategic value to the Army or Navy. To carry out its contemplated program in

After graduation he enlisted in the Marine Corps and saw action in the South Pacific during the Iwo Jima and Okinawa campaigns as commanding officer of the marine detachment aboard the USS Alaska. He also did occupation duty in Tsingto, China, and was finally assigned to the NROTC unit at Brown. Last fall he served as backfield coach of the Bruin freshman football team. He was released from the Marine Corps on July 1, 1948. Savignano is married and has

Historic Homestead at 749 Centre Street Ends Era After Almost Eleven Decades

With the decease on July 18 of Miss Mary Shannon Wingate in her ninety-first year at the old homestead, 749 Centre street, this estate long distinguished in the history of Newton and of the intellectual life of New England rounds out nearly 110 years of ownership by the same family.

First built for Joseph Blake in 1798, the spacious brick-ended colonial mansion belonged in succession to the Sargent and Cabot families and was acquired by Oliver N. Shannon in 1840. The old Cabot house, owned by the family for which Cabot street is named, long stood in the rear of the Shannon house. Not only was the large house itself with its thirty acres of land notable but also the acre of box-bordered garden sheltered behind the high stone wall first built in 1812, was a favorite feature of the city of Newton, known as the Garden City. The old garden in its prime,

Vote Nearly Quarter Million Dollars for Variety of Projects

At its meeting Monday night, the board of aldermen appropriated nearly a quarter of a million dollars for a variety of projects, including new streets, drains and sewers, reconstruction, maintenance and repairs of streets and for plans for the construction of four buildings.

Of the amount voted, $20,750 was for the preparation of plans and specifications for a fire house, two new school buildings and an addition to a third. A sum of $5000 was also voted for construction of partitions at the Technical High School Building.

Emerson Playground Holds Excursion

Last Monday, forty-three boys and girls, under the supervision of five mothers, one grandfather and two instructors, chartered a bus from the Emerson School playground in Newton Upper Falls to Houghton's Pond in the Blue Hills.

Upon their arrival, there was a frenzied race to the water for a refreshing swim. Then after a picnic lunch, twenty-six of the older boys and girls hiked to the Observation Tower, which is on top of the hills. The two instructors were deluged with such questions as, "If that the Pacific Ocean?" (Boston Harbor) Where's Newton? Gee, did we walk far?"

When they returned from their hike, the boys and girls plunged in for one last dip before going home. All the way on the trip back the bus driver's peace of mind was shattered by rousing cheers and lusty choruses of such favorites as "She's Too Fat For Me."

This trip was planned and directed by Beverly Boardman, instructor of the Emerson Playground, Dick Eagan, instructor of the Upper Falls Playground, assisted in the supervision of the excursion.

This is only the first of the many events which will put the Emerson Playground in the news. You'd better watch out, for you can never tell where you'll be seeing them next.

While in this area, he has been active in diocesan affairs having served as a member of the Cathedral Chapter, the board of examining chaplains and field department, and as an instructor in homiletics at the Episcopal Theological School in Cambridge.

Despite Wording, Tax Payments Are Same

Newton taxpayers need not be alarmed about the wording on their real estate tax bills which reads "due and payable in full on July 1, 1948" asserted Lorenz F. Muther, Jr., Executive Secretary of the Newton Taxpayers Association.

Read the small print, for actually the law is the same as last year, continued Muther, as he pointed out that partial payments may be made as before and that the taxpayer still is not subject to the interest penalty unless he pays later than November first.

Muther stated that it is only because Henry Long, Commissioner of Corporations and Taxation, will not approve of tax bill forms unless they include the wording he desires that local assessors have used the present version.

Veterans, however, should take notice that they will have to pay the poll tax this year, Muther said, as he cited Chapter 637 of the Acts of 1947 abolishing the poll tax abatement which veterans have enjoyed for the past few years.

A Letter to All Candidates Who Seek Public Office

Dear Candidates:

America is the only country in the world that permits its citizens to select government representatives according to their own judgment.

The publishers of The Graphic believe that no voter can exercise his best judgment without full knowledge of the qualifications of those desirous of holding public office.

The office which you seek is important to the welfare of our own community as well as the State.

Because this is true, this paper invites you, through its columns next week, to tell the people of Newton why YOU think you are best suited to represent Newton in the State Senate, House of Representatives or other offices.

We extend this invitation to all candidates who intend to seek office in the Fall.

The Newton Graphic.

Register, and Do It Now!

To those who have recently become residents of Newton and to those who have reached the voting age, we earnestly suggest that you have your name placed on the voting list of the city.

This Fall State officials as well as National officials are to be elected. It is not only a privilege to vote, it is a duty, and every man or woman who is eligible to have their name on the voting list should be determined that their name is on the voting list.

Registration of voters for the Primary in September will close on August 13. Evening sessions are to be held at the City Hall on Monday nights and at the Newtonville Library on Wednesday nights.

If you haven't already registered, do so at the first opportunity, and do it as soon as possible.

Not Worth Much

Don't pay too much attention to the efforts of prognosticators and political writers to keep up with the varying fortunes of the presidential candidates.

While no one can be certain, it is an open speculation whether the course of any presidential campaign has much effect upon the election. There may be exceptions, but no one has yet established beyond doubt the effect of speeches and incidents. Most of the elections, we suspect, are in the bag for one candidate or the other long before they begin their speaking tours.

The probable exceptions to such a general rule include developments in the field of foreign affairs and major changes in the domestic economic situation. Undoubtedly, these factors exert considerable influence upon the voters and what takes place in these areas is likely to swing voters from one side to the other.

Is Society Tottering

We find it rather difficult to understand the mental conclusions of some of our leaders who continue to warn us of a "society, tottering on the brink of disaster."

It is quite a habit with so-called leaders to tell the world that its people are on the eve of destruction. This is difficult to endorse because the people of the world, despite wars and troubles, are probably enjoying the highest standard of living in their history.

We live in a great age, with power and machinery adding to the comfort and convenience of individuals. This process has been going on for years and is having an effect everywhere. In some areas, it is more pronounced than in others, but it continues everywhere.

Just Thinking Out Loud

Those who contribute to the support of the churches rarely criticize them for not doing anything.

Every profession suffers a loss of prestige because of the mercenary motives of some of its members.

Most of us approve laws that benefit us and disapprove those that restrict our activities or profits.

The presidential campaign is underway and wise voters will use a lot of salt between now and November.

When you spend money freely, you will have many friends who will disappear when your cash runs out.

Not every newspaper article is printed as written. Sometimes printers and proof-readers have their own ideas.

A man who sticks to his principles is stubborn; a man who doesn't is a hypocrite — so what? Answer it yourself.

The merchants of Newton, who want your business, ask for it by advertising in The Graphic.

A daily habit that will pay dividends to the individual is a daily habit that should be cultivated. Why don't you?

Communications to The Graphic for warrant publication, must be concise and to the point. Only the editor is permitted to indulge in verbal ramblings.

It's Your Business

Many people who have never raised chickens may think an egg is "clear profit." Likewise many people who have never run a business have an idea that all "earnings" are profits which the businessman may keep for himself or give to his stockholders.

Thinking people know, of course, how wrong both of those ideas are. Even after you've paid running expenses and production costs—feed, machinery, equipment, labor, and so on—what you have left is by no means yours "for keeps." That holds good whether the product is eggs, grain, fruit, manufactured goods, or anything else.

For instance, taxes have to be considered, whether you farm or make gadgets. In manufacturing, for example, taxes take away almost half of what's left after all costs have been paid. That's why "profits before taxes" is a meaningless term.

And what about improvements on your farm? Those, too, must be paid for out of your profits. And in industry, about half of what's left after taxes—real profits—is plowed back into business.

That's why industry must be able to earn reasonable profits if it's to stay on the job and keep on serving the country. For those plowed-back profits are what pay for the development and expansion that provide good jobs for workers, good markets for farm products, and better living for all.

Martha's—Vineyard

This Special Feature on Martha's Vineyard was prepared by the Development Commission on Massachusetts' primary vacation resorts.

Four miles off the heel of Cape Cod is the paradise isle of Martha's Vineyard, which year in and year out holds its own among the nation's leading vacation lands.

Its inception as a summer rendezvous for urban dwellers dates back more than a century to the time when the newly-founded Methodist Camp Meeting Association pitched a few tents in Oak Bluffs for one week. Today, ringed by tiny cottages and winding, narrow lanes, closed to auto traffic, a huge tabernacle in the "Camp Grounds" marks this first campsite.

Thousands of inquiries about the Vineyard's vacation possibilities are received annually by the Massachusetts Development and Industrial Commission, which describes the island as "the traditional home of seafaring men." The place boasts a charm and beauty all its own. In its Seamen's Bethel and Barnacle Club "old salts" stroke their chins while pondering a game of checkers; occasionally a four-master may still be seen riding anchor in Vineyard Haven Harbor.

The island's year-round population of 5,000 quadruples during the season. Summer families reopen their homes; vacationers fill hotels; weekenders and excursionists relax on the many sandy beaches that fringe its borders.

Embracing an area approximately 100 square miles, the Vineyard comprises the bulk of Dukes County, which also includes the chain of Elizabeth Islands that stretch from Woods Hole Channel toward the open sea. The Town of Gosnold and Cuttyhunk, reached from New Bedford by motor launch, are located there.

The Vineyard's matchless charms, so popular with Americans from Coast to Coast, are within easy reach of Bay Staters. It is a pleasant steamer ride from New Bedford or Woods Hole and only half an hour by commercial plane from Boston to the island. Daily round-trip excursions permit ample time for sightseeing.

Bicycling, horseback riding, swimming, sailing, fishing and tennis are the island's foremost sports. An 18-hole golf course at Oak Bluffs is open to the public. The Vineyard's most popular late season attraction is its annual Striped Bass Derby, Sept. 15 to Oct. 15 — in which many valuable prizes are offered. Last year upwards of 2,000 contestants competed in the derby.

There are six separate townships on the island, ranging from Tisbury, better known as Vineyard Haven, to tiny Gay Head, the habitation of Indian descendants. The famed Gay Head cliffs of colored clay, from which Indian children fashioned crude pottery sold to tourists, is the island's most noted natural landmark.

In Chilmark, the summer home of James Cagney, visitors discover Menemsha Bight with its picturesque fishing fleet and expanding summer colony. West Tisbury's scenic drives and drowsy, rural lanes are but a short motor ride from the highways that skirt the shoreline.

Edgartown, the county seat, is characterized by narrow, winding streets, an excellent yacht club and fine beaches, including the long, sandy stretch in Katama known as South Beach. This is a favorite spot for beach parties and striped bass surf casting. Emily Post, noted authority on etiquette, occupies a cottage near Edgartown's center.

Oak Bluffs, for many years, has been the playground of the Vineyard. Its movie houses, summer theater, Tivoli dance hall, bowling alleys and skating rink provide amusement for visitors. A scenic railroad once skirted the shore between Oak Bluffs and Edgartown, but most traces of its trestle have disappeared. A street car line operated there but that, too, has gone into discard. Before the turn of the century a steamship line operated between Oak Bluffs and New York. Traces of the old New York wharf at the base of East Chop are still visible.

Lone Swimmers, Rash Divers Add To Toll of Swimming Casualties

A third installment of the "Swim for Safety" series presented in cooperation with the Newton Y.M.C.A.

When going swimming, two is company, three is better company—and being alone is dangerous!

If you have the inclinations of a hermit, seek your solitude elsewhere than in the water. With good companions your swimming will be more fun and much safer. Practiced swimmer though you may be, you might dive against a rock, be swept far out by a suddenly-encountered current, or get a cramp in deep water. In such a case, it could be your last swim if no one was around to help you or go for aid.

Never go swimming alone — always have another swimmer with you.

This is the sage advice of Richard B. Simmons, Physical Director of the Newton Y.M.C.A. "Lone swimmers," he says, "are virtually asking for trouble. No one is so good or so lucky that he can't get into trouble in the water. If you are alone and get into difficulties, the chances of coming out alive are mighty slim," he grimly adds.

Watch that diving, Mr. Simmons emphasizes. You swim for safety, he points out, but you dive for pleasure. But it's certainly no pleasure to dive into deceptively shallow water. Now is it fun to smash against a hidden rock or to plunge into a strong undercurrent you didn't know was there.

To get used to cold water, rub it over your legs, stomach, chest and armpits. That way it will not be such a shock to your body or cause your heart to make a difficult adjustment.

If you've just had a heavy meal, it's better to wait a while before taking a swim. Being in water shouldn't interfere with your digestion, but excitement and exertion in water will do it no good, and can put a heavy strain on your heart. If you're exhausted and over-heated, rest and cool off before taking to the water. Your swimming endurance is limited when you're tired at the start, and too sudden changes in temperature may cause cramps or other illness. (What is likely to happen when a thoughtless swimmer "feels his oats?" Read next week's installment of this series.)

DINING with JANE and BILL

Bill: What a honey of a day for our picnic! I hope Muriel brings along some of her delicious ham sandwiches.

Jane: Wait'll you see the surprise I have in store for you and you won't even want any of her sandwiches.

Bill: Well, let's hope it's something good because I'm always starved out in the open air.

Junior: Gee, Moms! I love your molasses cookies. May we have some of those, too?

Jane: They're already in the picnic basket, Junior, along with the watermelon and bananas I bought at "Fruitland" yesterday.

Junior: Did you say watermelon, Moms? Boy, you're a peach!

Jane: Yesterday, Bill, I met two nutritionists, Marge and Marie, from the Newton Nutrition Center, at the garden show and I asked them if they had any good ideas for picnic lunches.

Bill: Oh, they were probably all fancy ideas that a man wouldn't care for.

Jane: No siree. They gave me a delicious recipe for potato salad, which I know you'll go for in a big way.

Bill: It sounds swell, Jane, but I should think it would be rather difficult to carry on a picnic.

Jane: They told me that it would keep very well in a quart jar tightly covered and wrapped in a few layers of newspaper.

Bill: Is potato salad very nutritious, Jane? If the nutritionists suggested it—I have a vague feeling—

Jane: You're right, Bill. Potatoes, because we eat them so often, contribute a good amount of iron and Vitamins B and C. And then I'm going to add a lot of fresh vegetables.—Here, have a glimpse at the menu and let's have your opinion.

MENU

Potato Salad Sliced Tongue
Carrots, Celery, Radishes
Whole Wheat Sandwiches with Cream Cheese and Nut Filling

Newton in the Past

NEWTONVILLE—From Newtonville Square now it is possible to take electric cars for West Newton and Waltham, Nonantum, Watertown, Newton, Newton Centre, Newton Highlands and Newton Upper Falls. Verily the place is the hub around which the lesser lights pale in comparison.

NEWTON LOWER FALLS — Dr. McOwen is having city water pipes laid to his house lots situated on Cate's Hill, where it is his intention to build houses to rent shortly.

NEWTON CENTRE — The storm of Tuesday evening washed the streets quite badly and a section of Lake avenue was gullied out to a depth of eight inches. One of the electric cars was thrown from the rails near Lyman street by sand washing over the rails and another car was necessary to get it on the track again.

AUBURNDALE — The anti-hat crusade inaugurated some time ago at Keith's Theatre, Boston, has at last reached this village. It is not the theatre goers who are kicking but the conductors on the Commonwealth Avenue street railway, who complain that on account of the high hats worn by the ladies they cannot see passengers when they signal to leave the cars.

NEWTON CENTRE — The corner stone of the new M. E. Church on Centre Street was laid Monday afternoon with elaborate ceremonies in the presence of more than 400 members of the church and representatives of other religious societies. The stone was deposited in its place after an appropriate address by Bishop Mallalieu. The church which is to be a handsome granite sandstone structure will probably be ready for dedication next Spring.

POLITICS WITH COLOR

(The opinions expressed in this column are the writer's own, and do not necessarily reflect the views or policy of this newspaper.—Editor's Note.)

Democracy Gets Up Off the Floor Fighting And Attempting to Close Ranks

You can always count on the Democrats to put on a good show and entertain the voters, given half a chance. The Republicans are apt to adjust as many of their differences as possible privately. They have a distaste for unnecessary heated argument, brawling and confusion. As a result, the Democratic convention in the City of Brotherly Love was far more interesting to listen to over the radio, despite the acid comment of a hard-boiled newspaperman who was quoted as saying that Philadelphia was the "City of Frustration, where the G.O.P. nominated a man whom nobody liked and the Democrats nominated a man whom nobody wanted." That, of course, is not strictly true; however, there is just a germ of truth in that statement. More about that later.

My readers may be interested in a few fleeting impressions of this interesting conclave. First and foremost was the feeling which you sensed that the delegates were a hot, weary and discouraged crowd who were merely going through the motions of transacting business and providing a sounding board for the party's leading orators. To be sure, the Republicans served up an equal number of long, tiresome speeches which had little, if anything, to do with the business at hand. The G.O.P. gave us a non-glamorous Claire Booth Luce (speaking television-wise) while the Democrats came up with the really glamorous Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas and the former Labor Secretary, Miss Francis Perkins. Personally, I preferred both ladies to the G.O.P. speaker.

Both keynote addresses were much too long. There is no excuse for dragging out any convention with hour upon hour of partisan praise and dreary platitudes. No wonder most of the delegates were exhausted long before the selection of the two important nominees was made. As for the Democrats, didn't many of you feel that the Democrats were given just a bit too much credit for planning, fighting and winning the war? Of course, if the G.O.P. wants to get nasty and tough during the coming campaign, it can very properly point out that it was a Democratic administration which caused the present tragic mess in Berlin, which now threatens our people very, very gravely. That, however, is not the topic for discussion today.

The best thing the Democrats did, if you take a long look ahead and forget the election just around the corner, was to go to town on the problem of civil rights. That is where any fair-minded citizen will have to hand it to President Truman. He went much further in this matter than did the late F. D. R. He must have known in advance that what he was doing might seriously jeopardize his party's chance of victory in November. Nevertheless, he let the convention and the world know precisely how he felt about this vital issue. Right now, it would

July 26

ONE HUNDRED AND SIXTY YEARS AGO (1788) New York State accepted the U. S. Constitution, becoming a state. Acceptance was almost defeated by landowners fearing heavier taxation under the U. S. Maybe they had something there.

July 28

EIGHTY YEARS AGO (1868) the Fourteenth Amendment, guarding civil liberties, ratified. This Amendment forbids states to deprive any person of life, liberty or property without "due process of law", or to deny anyone equal protection of the laws. Motivated to protect civil rights of Negroes, its powers even protect corporations. In effect it made the Supreme Court final arbiter of state legislation. The poem, Laus Deo, was written by John Greenleaf Whittier on hearing the bells which proclaimed the Amendment's passage.

July 29

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO (1848) the suspension bridge over Niagara Falls completed. Perhaps it should have been christened the "Bridge of Blissful Sighs".

SIXTY-FIVE YEARS AGO (1883) Benito Mussolini born. He became dictator of Italy October 22, 1922; was shot by partisans on April 28, 1945, and publicly exhibited hung by the heels in a gas station. Sic semper tyrannis!

By

P.W.C.

Arthur H. Vandenberg, never did get going.

Here is one important point. The G.O.P. was smart in selecting men from opposite ends of the country. The Democrats, on the contrary, ignored geographical considerations completely. Their ticket would probably have been stronger had it had better balance. Missouri and Kentucky are relatively close together. Had the Vice-Presidential nominee been Majority Leader McCormack of Massachusetts, more balance would have been achieved. My guess is that the local Democrats are disturbed over the Barkley nomination. It will not help them very much in Massachusetts, regardless of the result of the primary contest between former Governor Tobin and Paul A. Dever.

Many of us are inclined to feel that Barkley's selection was due to the general belief that, despite his advanced age and other handicaps, he was the best to heal deep wounds within the party. Well, we shall see.

Finally, what will be the strategy of the two major parties in the campaign. Again, we have to reserve final judgment on this and other matters until after the Wallace-Hollywood side-show to be held later this week and early next week. It is apparent that President Truman will do his best to ignore candidate Dewey for two reasons. First, he would be at a tremendous disadvantage in any debate with the New York Governor, who is admitted by most observers to be the best radio speaker we have ever had with the exception, of course, of Franklin Delano Roosevelt. In the second place, Mr. Truman is satisfied that the G.O.P. record in Congress is vulnerable. If he can persuade the rank and file of the voters, and especially the women, that the high cost of living, the inflation spiral and all the rest of our economic ills are the fault of the Congress, he may make a relatively good showing.

Governor Dewey, on the other hand, will stay away from the Congressional issue as much as possible and will hammer away at the President's obvious lack of leadership, his vacillating foreign policy, his obstructionist tactics in dealing with the very Congress which he now criticizes so hotly and his utter lack of understanding of the necessity of cutting down the cost of our federal government. These are but a few of the many topics which the New Yorker will hammer home relentlessly. In the end, the President may be sorry that he ever raised this issue. However, we must give the President credit for his courage in defining so many of the so-called leaders of his party in Philadelphia and insisting on a renomination.

Patronesses of the arts as well as of social betterment, the Misses Shannon filled their home with works of American and European masters.

The Misses Shannon were much beloved in Newton, the elder Miss Shannon being known to all as "Aunt Mary." The younger Miss Shannon on her death in 1901 bequeathed life tenure of her estate to two cousins, the deceased Mary Shannon Wingate, and Sarah Pearson Wingate, who became Mrs. Harry Melville Taylor in 1905, and moved to make her home in Wellesley Hills in 1916.

This historic center of an era renowned in the annals of Newton now passes into the hands of the Sacred Heart Convent, which acquired ownership subject to Miss Wingate's life tenure some years ago.

Of course, a public health program must be economically feasible for the community. Results of such a program can be measured by keeping charts showing the increasing life span of heart sufferers. Elpis to Run at Suffolk Saturday

William Helis' Elpis, the grand six year old daughter of Blue Larkspur-Faucille D'or, winner of the $15,000 added Hannah Dustin Handicap for the past three years, is one of the leading nominees for the 12th running of the Fillies and Mares stake scheduled for Saturday at Suffolk Downs. A total of 25 nominations were made for the mile and a sixteenth event that the Helis performer has apparently established a monopoly on.

The six year old mare is being well campaigned this year, her most recent start being in the Vagrancy Handicap at Aqueduct. Elpis was well beaten in that race which was won by the greatly improved Conniver. Prior to that test Helis mare was second to Miss Grillo in the New Castle Handicap at Delaware Park. It is doubtful if Elpis has missed any section of the country this year journeying to Santa Anita in January to defeat Talon, winner of the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap and being seen at practically every race track in the east during the current season.

Swimming—

The lifeguards assigned to Crystal Lake by the Newton Recreation Department, under the direction of Mr. Dexter Linton, will assist in the demonstration and will provide necessary life-guard protection during the entire period.

In order to facilitate the promotion of this very excellent demonstration, all persons not connected with the demonstration are requested not to plan on their Sunday swim until after the demonstration is over, which will be approximately 4 o'clock.

The demonstration will include the following techniques:

In the beginners' class — proper breathing technique, glides, floating, kicks, combined strokes, jumping into deep water, diving and combined tests. In the intermediate swimming test — all strokes, floating, sculling, treading water, 100-yd. swim, under-water swim and dive.

In the junior lifesaving test — rescues, disrobing in the water for self-protection, torpedo buoy rescue, ring buoy rescue, demonstration of proper carries, diving for submerged articles and artificial respiration.

The finale of this demonstration will be a group demonstration of rhythmic swimming.

Those people who have been fortunate enough to attend a water ballet have no doubt wondered at the remarkable efficiency and rhythm of the expert swimmers in such a demonstration. This demonstration of rhythmic swimming, using our Newton youngsters, will indicate to the spectators that practice and attendance to details is the answer to the water ballet, through proper attention to the basic principles of rhythmic swimming.

Any business with a record of 75 years of continuous service to residents of Newton must have merit—The Graphic is now in its 76th year of continuous publication.

Blanche M. Noyes

The funeral of Miss Blanche M. Noyes, formerly of 16 Williston road, Auburndale, was held from the Chapel of the Auburndale Congregational Church Monday afternoon, July 19th, at three o'clock. Rev. Stephen Callender officiated. Interment was in the family lot in Woodlawn Cemetery, Acton.

Born in Melrose in 1865, Miss Noyes came with her family at the age of three to the new home on Hancock street built by her father, Moses A. Noyes.

Miss Noyes was keenly interested in civic and religious affairs. She was one of the oldest members of the Auburndale Congregational Church and for many years was a Sunday School teacher. She served on nearly all the committees of the Christian Endeavor Society and at one time was President. Miss Noyes worked in the Foreign and Home Missionary Societies, but was especially interested in the Walker Missionary Home. Residents of the Home were always welcome and made to feel that with her they had a second home.

She was also a member of the Christian Era Study Club and Auburndale Woman's Club. She will ever be remembered by her many friends as a woman of sterling worth and character.

gates from the whole area as they arrive at Wellesley College. Daniel Lewin, who is president of the Newton Junior Interscholar Council, and who has just returned from San Francisco where he attended the National Convention as a delegate of the national organization, is going to be the opening speaker on Thursday, July 22 and again on Thursday, August 5. The subject of his talk to be in the nature of a report on the convention and how it is a means for developing leadership in providing youth with an opportunity to take an active part in the planning of Red Cross activities.

Instruction at the leadership training centers, the local Junior Red Cross chairman said, will be presented through discussion groups and classes. Although the youths will study intensively all phases of the Junior Red Cross program, including international activities, community service, and conservation, they also will elect one of the health and safety courses — home nursing, accident prevention, nutrition and first aid. Demonstrations also will be given for Disaster Service, Home Service (social work) and the new National Blood program of the Red Cross.

The international activities phase of the Junior Red Cross program, Mr. Read said, long has sought to promote world-wide goodwill through exchange of school correspondence and art with pupils in other countries, and the sending of educational gift boxes and school chests abroad. Further emphasis to this program will be given by the presence at the training centers of two Canadian Junior Red Cross members who will attend as guest delegates.

Massachusetts officials, according to the program received here, will speak at the first training center. They are expected to include Governor Robert F. Bradford, John J. Desmond, commissioner of education, and H. O. Cook, state forester.

Among recreational affairs scheduled are "international night" and a one-day tour of historic sites around Boston.

Sawyer Construction Co. Awarded Contract to Build Seven Story Hospital Wing

A building contract for the construction of a seven-story wing to Newton-Wellesley Hospital has been awarded to the Sawyer Construction Company of Boston, successful bidder among several large construction companies with representatives living in Newton and Wellesley, it was announced today by Mr. John M. Powell, President of the hospital's Board of Trustees.

The awarding of the contract followed months of careful planning and revision of building plans by hospital Trustees with a view to early building.

Demolition to make way for the new north wing, a straight extension symmetrical with the present main building, will begin immediately in the area of the tunnel which leads from the main building to outlying hospital units. A connecting passageway will be retained, however, for the convenience of patients and the hospital staff.

The hospital president pointed out that limited building funds will permit only partial finishing of the interior after the shell of the new wing is completed. Completion of the remaining space for occupancy must then await additional financial support from the community, he explained.

Along with construction of the new north wing, alterations necessary for the proper functioning of the enlarged hospital will be made in the existing plant.

It is probable that a suitable dedication ceremony will be held after work on the next extension gets under way. It will be the first time in 20 years that ground has been broken to add to the total bed space of this community's hospital.

Promoting Lottery Brings a $50 Fine

In the Newton District Court Saturday, Jacob Bornstein, 35 of 7 Windsor road, Brookline, pleaded guilty to charges of being concerned in setting up and promoting a lottery and having lottery slips in his possession. A $50 fine was imposed on him by Judge W. Lloyd Allen on the "possession" charge and a suspended sentence of six months in the House of Correction on the other complaint.

The conviction was brought about by sharp detective work at Newton Corner on the part of members of the Newton Police department. After watching a car stop at Newton Corner for some time on three successive days, and noting the registration number, Sgt. Thomas H. McCormick and Officer Francis W. Turner made the arrest Friday afternoon.

Sgt. McCormick testified that the defendant had 39 number pool slip and 10 horse race slips in his possession.

Work Well Under Way on 'Revere House' at Centre

Exterior walls are up and construction is well under way of a house on Greenwood street, Newton Centre, where the local phase of a nationwide program of designing quality and building it into medium-cost houses is attracting community interest.

The house itself, a six-room, tri-level residence going up on an interior lot in Newton Centre's Oak Hill subdivision, is one of eight being built this year throughout the country under the supervision of the Revere Quality House Institute.

General objective of the Institute, sponsored jointly by Revere Copper & Brass Incorporated and The Architectural Forum, is to demonstrate to the prospective home-owner that the best in building materials and architectural design can be included in the average new house — and will be if the public demands them.

This is the point of view shared by Samuel Glaser, the architect of the Newton Centre house, and Arnold Hartmann, its builder, who together form one of the eight teams selected early this year to implement the Institute program. Other metropolitan areas in which there are Revere houses are New York, Houston, Sarasota, Fla., Cleveland, South Bend, Ind., San Francisco and Seattle.

Like all the Institute houses, the Revere house here is expected to be the nucleus of future housing developments. Scheduled for completion in mid-September, it has been designed, according to Mr. Hartmann, to sell for about $15,000. This figure — REVERE HOUSE —

Want Area Put in Manufacturing Zone

In order that a building for factory purposes may be erected, a petition has been filed with the city for the change of land from an unzoned district to a manufacturing district on Farwell street, Newtonville.

The land, a tract of 22,000 feet was purchased by the petitioner Harris C. Shelley of Wellesley, from the Metropolitan District Commission. Unzoned at present, it is surrounded by industrial and manufacturing establishments, according to Mr. Shelley.

It was stated, should the petition be granted, the petitioner and his brother, John B. Shelley, Jr., intend to erect a one-story brick building about 50 by 125 feet. It would be used as an assembly plant and machine shop for textile rolls for their father's company, the John P. Shelley Co.

To make the order effective an additional junior clerk for the comptroller's department will be necessary and Comptroller Martin has requested an appropriation of $780 for the salary of a clerk for the rest of the year.

From the Candidates to You

The Graphic last week extended an invitation to all candidates for public office to express, through its columns this week, the reasons why they believe they should be nominated and elected. Following are the replies received and The Graphic is pleased, as a public service, to print them for our readers consideration:

CANDIDATES FOR THE STATE SENATE

RICHARD H. LEE

Richard H. Lee says:
The GRAPHIC is rendering a valuable public service in printing information about the several candidates. The principal qualifications of a candidate can be found in his education and training, his community activities, and his record if he has held office. Education—My education includes degrees from Bowdoin College and Harvard Law School. I find that legal training is a valuable asset for those who make our laws. It has enabled me to draft bills and amendments without the delay which would be necessary if all these details had to be left for Senate Counsel. It also permits ready answers to many technical questions.

Community Activities in my case include work in Community Chest all the way from Solicitor to Asst. Village Chairman; Church School; YMCA, Director; Boy Scouts, Scoutmaster and committeeman; Improvement Association, President; Citizens Association, Secretary; Republican Ward and City Committee, Bar Association, Council Member and Committee Chairman; Parent Teachers Association, and the like.

Record—The final test of a candidate is his actual record in office. I served as Alderman-at-large from January 1940 until I resigned to enter the service. For the last two years I have represented the district in the State Senate and have gone on record

Donald Gibbs says:
In reply to the open letter in last week's Newton Graphic, I keenly appreciate the opportunity which you have given me to tell the readers of my qualifications for the office of State Senator.

My decision to become a candidate was the result of representative groups of people, from all parts of the district, urging me to seek this nomination. They felt that as a successful business man, with a unique background of public service to Newton, I not only could but should represent the citizens of this senatorial district in the same efficient manner which had been demonstrated locally in Newton.

In 1941, seven years ago, I was elected to the Newton Board of Aldermen. I served as chairman of the Public Buildings Committee for the first two years. As you might imagine, this committee deals primarily with the construction, maintenance and repair of our city property which has a valuation of over twelve million dollars. Next, I was appointed chairman of the License and Franchise Committee which covers a broad field of endeavor. While chairman of this committee, a study and recommendations were made which resulted in a complete revision of the tax-cab ordinances of the City of Newton. Today, this ordinance has been copied by several of the surrounding cities and towns. I have also served a full term on the Public Works

CANDIDATES FOR REPRESENTATIVES

GEORGE E. RAWSON

George E. Rawson says:
Your last issue contained an invitation to candidates for nomination in the Sept. 14 Primary to express through your columns the reasons why they should be nominated.

It is meet that a candidate should stand on his record if he has one, therefore I respectfully submit mine.

It is my belief that in nine years of service on the Newton Board of Aldermen, for seven years of which I was chairman of the Committee on Claims and Rules, I did much to improve the city by revising, strengthening and defending the Zoning Ordinance, and by securing the enactment of the revised Building Code of 1939, which has been rated as one of the best in the state.

In my first term as Representative to the General Court from the 4th Middlesex District, the Speaker appointed me Clerk of the Committee on Election Laws. We started the first general re-

MARGARET L. SPEAR

Margaret L. Spear says:
I want to thank the Newton Graphic for giving me this opportunity to ask the citizens of Newton, who have generously supported me in the past, to re-nominate and re-elect me, Margaret L. Spear, to be a representative from the Fifth Middlesex District.

I have served on the Committees of Education and Public Welfare since I have been a member of the Legislature.

For the last 4 years, I have been House Chairman of the Public Welfare Committee, a very interesting committee which hears, not only Public Welfare and Aid to Dependent Children bill, but also, Mental Health bills and matters pertaining to Prison and Parole.

Last year we heard bills of much importance. From the re-

JOHN S. WHITTEMORE

John S. Whittemore says:
I believe the thought outlined in your letter "A Letter to Candidates Who Seek Public Office" which appears on the front page of your July 22 issue, an excellent one.

I am glad to submit what I believe to be my qualifications to continue to represent the

Has the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Made Your Will?

If you have not made a will, the laws of your state say who will get your property and in what shares. Your wife, for example, may get a smaller share of your property than your children. Your property may go to people you don't want to have it.

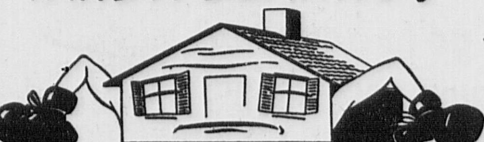

You can make sure that the right people receive your property by making a will. Have it drawn by your lawyer so that it meets all legal requirements.

For your family's protection—make a will.

For Safer Swimming

"It is better to be safe than sorry."

That bit of old-fashioned advice can go a long way toward cutting down the nation's annual toll of nearly 7,000 dead from drowning. Most of these deaths could have been avoided with commonsense swimming practices. More pitifully, most of them were of young people.

The Y.M.C.A., which has been teaching swimming and waterfront safety since 1885 and ought to know what it is talking about, has prepared a list of 10 simple rules for safe swimming. The rules, which have been appearing in this paper, are so fundamental you might expect everyone to know them instinctively. Yet, the Y' folks tell us, it is failure to heed these commonsense regulations which causes so many needless swimming tragedies every year.

We are printing these swimming safety rules for just one reason: the hope that they will help keep you or your children from getting into trouble in the water. The rules will do no good unless they are obeyed, not just once, but all during the swimming season. We trust you and your youngsters will do just that. It is your best guarantee that your family will enjoy healthful, happy times in the water.

Vital Anniversaries of the Coming Week

JULY 30

FIFTY YEARS AGO (1898) Prince Otto Von Bismark, "The Iron Chancellor" who created the German Empire and defeated France, died, aged 93. Some authorities give July 31st as death date.

AUGUST 1

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY YEARS AGO (1798) the British under Horatio Nelson defeated the French Fleet in the Battle of the Nile in Aboukir Bay near Alexandria. All but two of 13 French ships were destroyed in this engagement, which isolated Napoleon in Egypt.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO (1848) American troops evacuated Mexico, following the conclusion of the Mexican War. Today, in a holiday mood, the emigration is into Mexico by American tourists.

AUGUST 2

NINETY YEARS AGO (1858) the East India Company, which had been administrator of politics in India, was dissolved after the bloody Sepoy Mutiny. The government was assumed by the British crown.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO (1873) Portland, Ore., suffered a $1½ million fire, which destroyed 23 blocks of buildings and 250 dwellings.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO (1923) Warren Gamaliel Harding, twenty-ninth President, died on a vacation trip to the West, in San Francisco.

AUGUST 3

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO (1923) by the light of an oil lamp in a farmhouse at Plymouth Notch, Vt., Calvin Coolidge was sworn in as thirtieth President by his father, a justice of the peace.

AUGUST 5

ONE HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-FIVE YEARS AGO (1763) Col. Henry Bouquet's British and Colonialists defeated a large force of Indians who ambushed them at Bushy Run, near Pittsburgh, Pa. The victory raised the Indian siege of Fort Pitt and ended Pontiac's uprising.

ONE HUNDRED AND TEN YEARS AGO (1838) the English Chartist movement for civil rights formally launched at Newhall Hill, Birmingham. It failed. But almost all its program, including universal suffrage and the secret ballot, was eventually enacted.

It's Your Business

Let's fix in our minds exactly how we in America have achieved the economic eminence that has given us grave responsibilities as well as great rewards.

There is really no secret about America's success. Little bands of men settled in this land because they were adventurous and because they wanted freedom from oppressive governments. When the oppressive arm of government reached across the sea, these individualists banded together to defend their freedom—and they won.

These men formed a new nation that guaranteed freedom to all. For the first time in history every man was free to engage in whatever lawful enterprise he chose. And he was free—always with due regard for his neighbor's freedom—to conduct that enterprise in the manner he decided was most productive and profitable.

In short, a man was free to make all the economic progress his will and his skill made possible.

He had freedom to build, improve, expand, and invest his rewards as he saw fit. He had freedom to buy and sell at will, and freedom to compete with whomever he desired.

Our forefathers used these freedoms well and continuously. Their wagon was hitched to a star—the star of liberty—the ideal of individual freedom. The question is: "Are we slipping from these bedrock principles laid down by the Founding Fathers?"

in roll call on all major issues. Space does not permit the listing of these measures but the record is open to all. The thousands of people of all walks of life who have been in touch with me regarding public questions can verify the fact that I am interested in the views of all citizens and that you do not need to get any self appointed boss to intercede with me in order to have a question considered on its merits. At the same time I have never used my independent position to be an obstructionist but have always stood ready to cooperate with city and state administrations in every constructive way.

Veteran's Affairs — There are only half a dozen Veterans of World War II in the Senate and there are hundreds of bills on veterans' affairs. Oddly enough most non-veteran legislators are so anxious to have veteran support that they feel compelled to promote any scheme supposed to benefit veterans. Those of us who are veterans in our own right, can examine these plans more objectively and call a halt to absurd and extravagant proposals which do not really benefit those who bore the brunt of combat.

Chairman—Joint Committee on Public Service (with Rep. Henry L. Shattuck, house chairman) who retires this year.

Member—Joint Committees on Banks and Banking, Legal Affairs, Cities, Public Health.

Special Commissions

Chairman — Commission on Public Health Laws 1947-1948.

Chairman — Commission on Workmen's Compensation 1947-1948.

Member — Commission on Community Property 1947.

Introduced bills to—Permit the Sale of Colored Oleomargarine. Require a referendum before establishing Race Track in Towns. Permit investment in Bonds of World Bank. Enrichment of Flour. (This legislation has passed). Merit Rating for Auto Insurance (not yet adopted).

Continuity — The work of the legislature is done largely in committee. In the Senate, experienced Senators are relied upon to fill key positions. Any district with continual changes will be handicapped because its senator will have to learn anew the complicated rules of the Senate, will require time to gain the confidence of his colleagues and acquaintance with the state department heads and commissions, and finally will have to wait some years before receiving major committee chairmanships. It has been my aim to give the district conscientious and intelligent representation during the past two years. If the voters want to see that type of representation continued in an increasingly effective manner they will renominate Senator Lee for a second term.

and the Claims and Rules Committees. While a member of the Public Works Committee, we revised the specifications for streets, setting up a long-range program which will save the city a substantial sum of money in future years. As a member of the Claims and Rules Committee, an intensive study was made to find a satisfactory solution to the Veteran's Housing problem. In creating the Veteran's Housing Department of the City of Newton, I am sure you will agree that Newton has kept faith with its sons and daughters.

In January of this year I assumed the chairmanship of the Finance Committee. Due to the large turnover in the Board of Aldermen at the last election, this committee has six new members out of its total of seven. Even though it was my first year on this committee, it was my responsibility to handle the largest budget in Newton's history. That it was completed in an efficient and business-like manner is in some small way to my credit. We, as a committee, have also approved and borrowed outside the debt limit $1,250,000 for the city's share of expense in building the Veteran's Housing Project in the Oak Hill section of Newton. This in my estimation is a very forward step. Newton may well be proud of this development of 415 homes which has attracted state-wide recognition.

You, as a reader, will be interested in my business career only in that sound management is a prerequisite to the success of good government as well as business. I am Vice-President and Assistant Treasurer of the Kendall Paper Company of Cambridge; Treasurer of the Waterproof Sales Corporation, Boston; a director of the New England Paper Merchants' Association, the largest wholesale paper merchant group in the United States and a director of the Bryant and Stratton School of Boston.

My civic activities include Community Chest—various positions from worker to village chairman both in Newton and Boston, Red Cross and Newton-Wellesley Hospital drives. I am a director and member of the investment committee of the Rebecca Pomroy Home of Newton. In the foregoing, I have tried to answer briefly the questions asked about any candidate. No one is qualified, whether in business or public office, to make decisions without full knowledge of any issue. To hear both those favoring and opposing any question has been and will continue to be my policy. This combined with my training and wide experience gained through public service, plus my ability to apply commonsense and sound business principles, gives me confidence that I am well qualified to represent you in the office of State Senator for which I am a candidate. My slogan is "Gibbs Means Business."

vision of the Election Laws since 1913, and a considerable part of the work was mine. I was also Clerk of the Committee on Military Affairs and Public Safety. On that committee we brought the veterans laws up to date. I was one of a sub-committee of three to whom was assigned the task of studying the Coconut Grove disaster. Senator Clamper and I wrote the Public Safety Act of 1943 which made the building inspection laws and fire prevention statutes of the state apply to Boston, which had not been done before. Those laws were brought up to date by us and there have been no more such disasters. I was also one of the group which secured the passage of the act for completion and modernization of Logan Airport. During the recess following I served on the Recess Commission to study Departmental Rules and Regulations.

In my second term I was appointed Chairman of the Committee on Election Laws, which post I now hold. We have made many improvements in the election laws and procedures which have also saved the state considerable money. Wm. E. Mullins of the Boston Herald complimented me on this work in his July 4, 1947, column.

During the 1945-46 Recess I was vice-chairman of the Recess Commission to study Election Laws, and we completed our revisions. In both my second and present terms I have continued as clerk of Military Affairs and Public Safety. In that position I have had a large part in the constructive legislation for veterans and their dependents. I helped bring the Veterans Benefits Acts up to date, and secured passage of the law making veterans service centers compulsory in every city and town. I still had a considerable part in still further improving the building safety and fire prevention laws.

During the last recess of the General Court I served on the Redistricting Commission.

In 1946 I led the successful fight to defeat an inheritance tax on the proceeds of life insurance policies.

In 1947 I secured the defeat of a bill to increase the state income tax.

In the current session I filed the original bill for an improved charter for the City of Boston.

In 1947 I filed the bill for an improvement of the Newton Pension system.

The defeat of the Governor's bill to improve the state highways at the hands of the Democratic minority in the Senate, who blocked the necessary two-thirds vote, was a matter of disgust to me. I voted for that and the Airport Completion bill in the House. It was my hope that the passage of the Highway Bond Issue would enable us to get Route 128 out of Newton, for which I have worked for years. I will still keep at that proposition until it is accomplished.

I have always stood for economy in government, have always voted that way and will continue to do so. Believing that public office is a public trust, I have always striven to represent Newton to the best of my ability, and to be always on the job. Newton and the Commonwealth have always had, and will always have my first consideration. I am a life long Republican.

That is my record. I am running on it, and not from it.

port of the Commission on Juvenile Delinquency, I carried through the House the bill which established the Youth Service Board. This law must be implemented by further legislation in the 1949 session and I feel, because of my study of this subject during the present year, that I shall be of service in seeing that such legislation be enacted.

I am vice-chairman of the Commission to Revise and Recodify Public Welfare laws. The Commonwealth still operates under laws taken from the Poor Laws of England, adopted in our early days.

In our studies of the subject during the last year and still continuing, we find that many bills must be introduced, in the next session, to bring our laws up to date. I am the only Republican member of the House who has had the advantage of thorough studies of these laws.

With all modesty, I feel that I shall be of service to the State in the next session of the Legislature.

I promise that I shall try to be regularly in my seat, as I have been in the past, and make my past experience in legislation of great value in the coming session.

their Representative in the Massachusetts General Court.

I am anxious to have the voters of Newton Centre, Chestnut Hill, Thompsonville, Newton Highlands, Oak Hill, Newton Upper and Lower Falls, Waban and Auburndale know as much as possible of my background and record so that they may compare my qualifications and experience with those of other candidates seeking the same office. A fully informed electorate is more capable of choosing the representation it desires.

I was born in Newton Highlands in 1905 and have been a resident of Newton ever since. I had the privilege of attending the Newton schools, graduating from the High School in 1924. After graduating from Harvard College, I became a representative of a New York investment banking house in its Boston office. I am currently associated with the investment counsel firm of John P. Chase, Inc., which I joined in the early 1930's and I am also Assistant Treasurer of the Perkins Institute and Massachusetts School for the Blind and the Home for Aged Men in Boston.

As a life-long resident of the City I believe I am unusually well acquainted with its people and their civic, social and political thoughts and desires. I have endeavored to contribute actively to community life by working in the Red Cross, Salvation Army, the Newton-Wellesley Hospital and the Community Chest drives. Particularly interested in athletics and recreation, I was privileged to serve as general chairman of the Newton Halloween Parties last fall. Recently Mayor Lockwood honored me with an appointment to the Newton Recreation Commission. Other activities with which I am currently associated in Newton include the Men's Club of Newton Highlands, of which I am president; the Newton High School Alumni Association, of which I am also president, and the Newton Community Council. I am a trustee of the All-Newton Music School and am a member of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Newton Highlands.

My political experience commenced in 1941 when a group of citizens requested me to run for the office of Alderman-at-Large from Ward 5. Successfully elected, I served as a member of the Public Works and Finance Committees until I resigned in June, 1942, to accept a commission as first lieutenant in the Army Air Forces. After forty-four months' service I returned to Newton and was asked to run for Representative in the Massachusetts Legislature in 1946. During the term recently concluded, I served as Clerk of the Committee on Cities and through this assignment have gained invaluable knowledge and experience in the problems of municipal government.

Considering the number and scope of the social, economic, financial, and political matters upon which a Representative must vote, I truly believe an experienced legislator can best serve the people of the district. Familiarity with procedure, acquaintance with the thoughts and desires of other Representatives, and a background knowledge of recurring problems provide the experienced Representative with a desirable insight from which the constituency will undoubtedly benefit. Usually, also, more responsible committee and other assignments are available to those who have served in the House.

For the record, I wish to state that I am a firm believer in the party system of government. As a Republican, I have followed the Republican leadership in the House most of the time. On occasions, however, I have asserted an independence which I believe is the prerogative of every thinking and conscientious legislator.

To represent the people intelligently, I believe a legislator should endeavor to obtain their thoughts and sentiments in relation to important impending legislation. I have discussed many perplexing matters with men and women of the City and the Commonwealth and have found their reasoning and advice constructive and helpful.

As a freshman member of the House, I refrained from introducing many bills. With one exception, those which I did introduce concerned the City of Newton and they were enacted into law. I was privileged to introduce and take charge of the bill which permits the City of Newton to borrow outside its debt limit in order to construct sewers, school houses, and other public buildings.

In my opinion, the more important matters facing the new Legislature when it convenes in January are housing, taxation, education, highways and trans portation, public welfare and institutions. These are recurring problems concerning which some constructive action has already been accomplished. I firmly believe that the tax laws in the Commonwealth are antiquated, unnecessarily complex, discriminatory and uncollectible. I have constantly argued on the floor of the House in favor of a fundamental revision of these laws and was gratified when, in the closing days of the past season, a resolve was passed creating a commission to make a two-year study of all matters pertaining to taxation and to recommend new legislation. I shall carefully follow the progress of the commission study and hope that any new legislation enacted will include relief for the property owners, a more equitable distribution of the tax burden among all the people, the elimination of the unnecessarily large number of sources of revenue and the institution of an intelligible and modern auditing and accounting system.

A subjective analysis of the reasons why I believe I am well qualified and should be re-nominated and re-elected in the Fall is somewhat distasteful, especially in view of the fact that the writer is seeking office at the request of a group of citizens. Space precludes a detailed report of my record during my first term but I believe an objective analysis of it would reveal a full realization of all matters and a full realization of the responsibilities which the office of Representative entails. I hope the people of the 5th Middlesex District will feel "one good term deserves another."

Whittemore—

Fourth Middlesex District which comprises Wards 1, 2, 3 and 7, in the city of Newton.

In my capacity as Representative to the General Court from the Fourth Middlesex District, I have always endeavored to promote the best interests of the majority but only after surveying the cross-sectional opinions of all.

I am confident that my record in the Legislature will prove that any final action taken by me upon pending legislation was the result of a careful study and never from a purely political viewpoint.

I have tried to exercise the same judgment in considering proposed legislation that I would in making a major decision in the conduct of my own business . . . for after all, it is conceded that good government is nothing more than good business!

As a resident of Newton for more than 25 years I have felt it my duty and responsibility to associate myself with every major effort, which includes as major efforts the following: Director of the American Red Cross, Director of Family Service Bureau, Director of Newtonville Improvement Society and other civic activities.

As a member of the Committee on Insurance and the Committee of Conservation, my duties as Clerk of these Committees has afforded me invaluable experience that should better enable me to serve your interests in any capacity in my future and continued legislative career.

I hold the offices of Secretary and Treasurer of the International Federation of Commercial Travelers Insurance Organizations, and Secretary and Treasurer of the Eastern Commercial Travelers Insurance Associations of Boston.

In summing up, it is my firm belief that the people from Wards 1, 2, 3 and 7 have answered the question as to

POLITICS WITH COLOR

(The opinions expressed in this column are the writer's own, and do not necessarily reflect the views or policy of this newspaper.—Editor's Note.)

Who Represents the People—President Truman or Congress?

There are a number of interesting things to consider in connection with the President's message to the special session of Congress, which has just been delivered as this is being written. Very significant, indeed, is the fact that the controversial civil rights problem was deliberately left at the tail-end of the message, if we except a quick reference to a health bill, the suggested repeal of the Taft-Hartley bill, improvement of the anti-trust laws and one or two other matters. Obviously, Mr. Truman was not anxious to place too much emphasis on the question which had split the Democratic convention wide open so recently.

He knows, as we all do, that if the G.O.P.-controlled Congress wants to side-step the President's numerous recommendations, all it has to do is to place at the head of its agenda for the special session the civil rights program. The so-called Dixiecrats will then see to it that a prolonged filibuster takes place. Of course, one may argue that it would be stupid for the Republican policy-makers to adopt such a course. It might arouse public wrath, even as would a hasty adjournment of Congress. That, of course, is precisely what Congress would do if it dared to. The G.O.P. and the Southern Democrats are in a rage over the calling of this session, during the ghastly heat of a typical Washington mid-summer and during the period normally devoted to intensive campaigning by all members of our august deliberative body.

Well, by the time this appears in print, it is quite possible that the G.O.P. will have forced an adjournment. Such a course, it would seem to your commentator, would be most unfortunate, especially from a political standpoint. The President was smart in couching his message in such language and in such a calm spirit that the average citizen will be inclined to believe that the Republicans, aided and abetted by the Southern Democrats, acted from purely political motives and without due regard for the welfare of the people as a whole. In that case, Mr. Truman and not Governor Dewey would be the beneficiary at the polls next November.

We have spoken briefly of two steps which Congress may see fit to take. In my humble opinion, neither step is wise. The chances are that the President, rather than Congress, represents the people in demanding action on the critical housing problem as well as on the equally critical problem of inflation and high prices. After all, what does the average citizen care about the desires of Congressmen, seeking re-election, as compared with their own immediate worries and problems? The housewife is scared to death over the continued rise in prices. The war veteran is still gravely concerned over his failure to find a decent place to live, without being forced to sponge on his relatives or live in a trailer or a dingy basement or attic. Furthermore, there is nobody who does not feel the high cost of living today, despite the apparent prosperity throughout the land. Ask the typical white-collar worker, ask the old pensioner, ask the young man just out of high school or college how much he is benefiting from this so-called prosperity. And all of these people have votes and intend to use them next November.

What, then, will this special session of Congress do? Presumably, assuming that it stays on the job and makes at least a half-hearted effort to enact at least a portion of Mr. Truman's program, it will dig out the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill from the House Committee which has kept it bottled up for many, many months, and force its enactment, regardless of the stubbornness of certain House leaders, including the esteemed Speaker Martin of No. Attleboro. As Mr. Truman has pointed out, Congress can, if it wishes, enact at least a part of his program in short order. As a matter of fact, quite regardless of the merits of this housing bill, it would be extremely smart politics for the G.O.P. to enact this bill promptly.

Now, the President emphasized two specific problems which required immediate attention. These were housing and the checking of further inflation, which he mentioned first. The Congress can undoubtedly take some steps to halt inflation to a certain extent, especially when it comes to what the Chief Executive termed "limiting wage adjustment." My guess is that what he would have said had he dared to would have been, "placing a ceiling on wage increases." That, however, would have cost him even more of the labor vote than he will lose anyway. It seems most doubtful that Congress will stand for price control or rationing, even in the watered-down form mentioned by Mr. Truman. Furthermore, the G.O.P., with the help of Democrats like Senator Byrd of Virginia, will unquestionably call a halt to the administration's policy, sub-rosa, to be sure, of hiring some 500 new federal employees each week. This may mean a lot of votes for the President next fall, but it is hardly the way to check inflation. Finally, it is interesting to note that both Governor Dewey and Governor Warren are "sitting-out" this special session. They do not intend to get embroiled in heated arguments over the merits and demerits of Congress. Messrs. Taft and Martin will be allowed to carry the ball.

The Wallace Convention
So much has already been written about the third party convention in Philadelphia that detailed comment is unnecessary. May I, however, point out the disturbing fact that this third party bears no resemblance whatsoever to the Progressive Party of 1912. The writer was heart and soul behind that party and gave an endless amount of time to its promotion throughout Massachusetts. I have vivid recollections of a drive for funds all over the state. More money was raised, in very, very small sums, than had ever been raised before. It was truly inspiring to watch proceedings from a good vantage point. In those days, however, there was no Communist taint involved. All that that Progressive Party was trying to do was to drive some common sense into the G.O.P. Old Guard, which dies but never surrenders. If that particular party served to infuse a little new blood and a little more vision into the Old Guard, or rather, the party which it represented, it did some good.

What do we see today? We see another third party, led by a man, obviously frustrated, who as both feet firmly planted in the air. And yet he is able to command the attention of many, many thousands of people with brains and intelligence. Worst of all, Wallace appears to go over most strongly with young people and even boys and girls in their teens. The fact that these people are obviously well-fed, well-dressed and well-housed does not enter into the situation. They think of themselves as the have-nots. What a break for the American-style Communists and especially for Joe Stalin. If only these young people would talk to their elders and to substantial businessmen in their neighborhood, they might see the error of their ways. Surely they cannot possibly want to play into Stalin's hands and take the first long step to deprive us all of freedom of speech and freedom of religion, to mention but two of our very precious freedoms. No. This must not happen here and it will NOT happen, provided that you and you and you stand guard and organize intensively to preserve America as we have always known it.

Day Camp, at the Browne & Nichols Lower School, Cambridge, on Friday afternoon.

Mr. Chester T. Holbrook, Director of Camp Matocka, with Mrs. Holbrook, welcomed the parents and friends as they arrived, and during the afternoon were introduced to the staff of counselors and registered nurse at the camp.

There was an exhibition of Arts and Crafts in the very popular Work Shop, which included, boats, air plane models, an Indian Village, pocket books, belts and bracelets.

The Nursery and Kindergarten Group expressed their art in a group of finger paintings and clay models.

An exhibition game of Kick Ball was played with much excitement when home runs were scored.

The Parents and Campers were seated in the foye where a group of girls participated in a Minuet Dance on the spacious lawn, which was followed by a trio in a comedy dance, "This Is How We Do It." The dances were under the direction of Miss Joanne Sanderson. Their pink and blue costumes were very effective and were made with the help of each participant at Camp.

Another high light of the afternoon events was the Magic Show. This thrilling act was very profitable to Jackie Curtin, Jr., of W. Newton, he was paid a huge dollar bill for his taking part. The greatest excitement occurred when the magician brought forth a white rabbit. Many Campers had the opportunity to hold the bunny.

After singing the Camp Songs, Happy Birthday was rendered in honor of the many campers who have birthdays during July.

The long table was very effectively arranged with flowers and large bowls of punch, with the center attraction a huge birthday cake which was served with ice cream by a group of the counselors.

HOW WE'VE GROWN IN GREATER BOSTON

Yes, we've added 225,000 new telephones in Greater Boston since 1940, and we're now handling an average of a million four hundred thousand more calls per day.

To provide this added service, we've increased telephone facilities by doing far more construction work than in any similar period in our history. The result is that most people, according to a recent survey, find that their service is "good" or "excellent".

As yet, equipment to provide for changes in types of service is not available. But as soon as we've filled all the orders from people who are still without telephones, the next step will be to give everyone just the type of service that he wants.

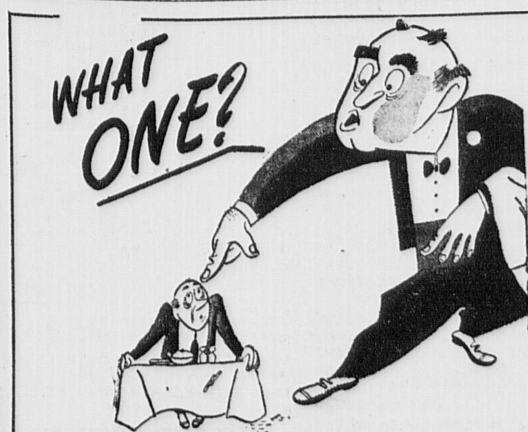

In Newton there are now 7800 more telephones than before the war. 5000 of these have been added in the past 2½ years. Also in the past 3 years the average number of calls per day has increased 24%.

Our first concern is to provide sufficient equipment to care for present demands for new telephones and for those expected in the near future. This is now being done, and the work has been going on for 2 years. Completion is expected some time this winter. In addition to meeting the demands for new telephones, this expansion of our facilities will also result in more flexibility and more service for you.

ure includes the price of the property.

One of the principles generally ignored in mass housing, but emphasized here by Mr. Glaser is orientation. This house has been oriented on the lot to insure privacy and to take maximum advantage of the sun, an important consideration in New England.

It stands 50 feet from Greenwood street on a wooded lot, approximately 104x120x72 feet, with a pronounced grade that makes its three levels essential. The garage, the interior entrance hall, the kitchen and one bedroom face north. The living room and two master bedrooms have the more pleasing prospect of the south and southwest.

From a design point of view the house when seen from the driveway appears to follow the configuration of the property on which it was built. The architect sought to accomplish this by using fieldstone trim on the exterior garage wall, a matching low stone wall on the east, or far side of the drive, and a flagstone terrace on both sides (north and south) of the house.

To continue this theme of naturalness he plans to use redwood shingles for the exterior finished with a single coat of linseed oil and topped with a low-pitched, 20-year built-up roof surfaced with white aggregate.

This house has six rooms and one bath with a total square footage of 1067 feet exclusive of the garage which has an additional 263 square feet. Its rooms are a hobby room on the ground or entrance floor, a living room and kitchen on the first level and three bedrooms on the second level.

schools in Massachusetts and New Hampshire. At one time he was instructor in mathematics and chemistry at the Berkshire School for Boys, and also served as educational advisor to the Veterans Administration in Washington, Ohio and Boston. He was a member of Winthrop Lodge of Masons and of the Universalist Church of Everett.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary (Barnes) Crowell, two daughters, Mrs. Virginia C. Ewart of Boxboro and Mrs. Philip Addy of Stowe, two grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. Lucy N. Solee, of Los Angeles, California.

Services were held in Maynard, Monday afternoon at 3:30 with Rev. James V. Miller of Stow officiating. Burial was in Brookside Cemetery, Stow.

Everywhere one could see that the four weeks just passed had been of great benefit to the young campers.

The "stumbling period" in every youngster's life that is so apparent when he first takes on an active stride in the summer vacation is on the way out. It is easy for an observer to note the development of coordination between mind and muscle.

Oh yes, it's all here: the imaginary mighty pull of the archer's bow; a sharp report from the rifle range; the snap of the diving board as it gives way to the weight of a boy departing for a full twist.

Flooded with activity is the only description fit for Tabor School Camp!

J. Tabor Browder, Director of the School Camp stated this morning that a few vacancies exist due to pre-camp season vacation plans made by some of the parents. The openings are from 2 to 6 weeks since due to public demand the camp will remain open until September 3.
